DIVERS CONVINCED THAT SUNKEN SUB IS DEATH SHELL

SIX EXPLORATIONS MADE YESTERDAY FOUND NO LIFE ABOARD S-51

ROUGH WEATHER FORCES TWO TOP-HEAVY DERRICKS TO SEEK SHELTER

By CARL D. GROAT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

U. S. Submarine Base, New London, Conn., Sept. 30.—Divers are convinced from their preliminary examinations in the hull of the sunken submarine S-51 that no life exists aboard.

Their six plunges yesterday, while not absolutely conclusive, left them certain that nothing but corpses finally will be yielded by the S-51.

U. S. Submarine Base, New London, Conn., Sept. 30.—Tragic luck still trailed the navy's work of trying to rescue possible living men within the hull of the wrecked submarine S-51 today.

The two bulky, top-heavy derricks Century and Monarch which two days in succession have been driven by rough weather to seek shelter, were forced again early today to put back into a safe berth at Newport.

Admiral Christy had hoped to have them operating at the scene of the wreck by dawn today. Accordingly he ordered them to proceed from Newport to the wreck area.

At Breton Reef lightship, however, the wind was found freshening and the sea kicking up, so the two cranes were compelled to lumber back into the harbor. Later in the morning the weather improved and it was hoped that they might be sent to the wreck area during the day.

Today is virtually the last day of hope of getting any living men out, and the naval men ashore here admit privately that this hope is as good as nil. The "zero hour" is past. If no hoist succeeds now, then it will be a slow, tedious process to get the submarine to the surface.

Meantime the continued choppy weather did not interfere with preparations for further diving operations. The late night message from Admiral Christy said that on the sixth descent of the divers yesterday he had given special orders to search for bodies though the primary object of the diving was to "plug up" the ship so it could be lightened and made more buoyant for the lifting operations. The last diver to enter the crushed vessel was unable, however, to find more corpses. Wreckage piled high and badly twisted, had hampered the entire diving operations yesterday. The upshot of the day's work was the finding of the bodies of William C. Teschemacher and John L. Gibson and the tragic negative report that the men did not know whether the doors aft were sealed so as to perhaps hide living men behind them.

Explorations were to continue today.

The extreme confusion within the hull indicated to Captain E. J. King, chief of the submarine base and others who might have been out to the scene, that it may be impossible to check up definitely on whether the ship is other than a death shell.

RESCUE OPERATIONS SUSPENDED FOR TODAY

New London, Conn., Sept. 30.—Rescue operations in connection with the sunken submarine S-51 have been suspended for today. Heavy weather developed in the early forenoon, compelling abandonment of plans to attempt a hoist with the cranes. Diving operations inside also were abandoned.

The official message from Admiral Christy said:

"Present weather conditions make operations not possible."

Captain Ernest J. King, chief of the submarine station, declared he still had not abandoned all hope, but added:

"Every day's delay decreases the small chance of anybody being found alive aboardship."

The breeze was so stiff and the

FIRST FATALITY OF FOOTBALL SEASON AT HINSDALE HIGH

Chicago, Sept. 30.—The first fatality of the football season occurred here with the death of John W. Buffington, 15, of the Hinsdale high school gridiron team. Buffington fell unconscious late yesterday during a hard scrimmage and died a few hours later in a hospital.

An inquest was ordered for today to determine the nature of the injuries. Buffington was the son of Walter J. Buffington, wealthy jeweler.

GOPHER JUNIORS COP HIGH HONORS FOR THIRD TIME

BRING HOME GRAND CHAMPIONSHIP FROM TRI-STATE FAIR

MINNESOTA SPUDS TOOK SECOND PLACE, NEBRASKA WINNING FIRST

St. Paul, Sept. 30.—(UP)—For the third consecutive year and the fourth year since the tri-state fair at Sioux City, was launched eight years ago the Minnesota junior demonstration team came home with the grand championship.

Minnesota's team specializing in poultry, was composed of Wilbert Sindt and Ralph Shane, both of Pipestone.

There were 21 junior teams from 11 states entered in the competition. Minnesota club leader T. A. Erickson, university farm, returned to St. Paul with news of the victory.

Margaret Roberts and Marie McGhee, Anoka, won fourth in the home economic competition.

In judging Dell Wilson of Guthrie; Leo Fenske of Bemidji and Edward Voosen of Fairmont won third in grain judging and sixth in livestock judging.

Nebraska potatoes took first prize on potatoes and Minnesota second.

MONTICELLO MAN ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF MANSLAUGHTER

St. Cloud, Sept. 30.—(UP)—Kenneth Stewart, 20, Monticello, was arrested on a manslaughter charge here today following the death of Henry Miller, former mayor of Big Lake, from injuries sustained when run down by an automobile Stewart was driving.

Miller was struck by the car as he stepped into the road in front of his home at Big Lake Sunday. He died at a hospital here last night.

SLAYER OF HIS AGED GRANDMOTHER IS UNCONCERNED

Phillips, Wis., Sept. 30.—(UP)—Apparently unconcerned, Elmer Dorr, 15 year old youth, held in the county jail here on a first degree murder charge in connection with the death of his grandmother, showed no remorse for the crime.

Questioned by authorities the youth is said to have freely admitted the slaying.

According to his story he killed his grandmother, Mrs. Mary Dorr, 78, with whom he and his father were living, when she refused to allow him to come into the house.

According to authorities he told of having broken the glass in the door, opened it, and then went in and beat Mrs. Dorr to death with an iron crank.

He is expected to be given his preliminary hearing today.

EXPOSURE OF "LIQUOR RING" BY THE GLEEMANS

AFFIDAVITS FILED, SENDS THE WHOLE RING TO COVER AND QUIT OPERATING

PREVIOUSLY HAD BEEN DOING THRIVING BUSINESS, IT HAS BEEN INFERRED

Minneapolis, Sept. 30.—(UP)—Exposure of the Twin Cities "million dollar liquor ring" in affidavits filed by Ben and Abe Gleeman, convicted murderers, in their fight for retrial, may have saved members of the ring.

This developed today when J. E. Early, special prohibition operative from Washington, revealed findings of a two weeks' investigation here and in St. Paul.

Early said the Twin Cities syndicate, which had been importing alcohol from the east, suddenly ceased to operate when the affidavits of the Gleemans were filed. Until then, he said, it was doing a thriving business.

The Washington operative refused to say the ring he is investigating is the same as the one named by the Gleemans but pointed out that his intended victims suddenly fled the city when the affidavits were filed.

His investigation had progressed far enough to make arrests when the Gleeman expose came, he said. So the charges intended to show the ring was responsible for the murder of Burt Stevens instead may have warned its members just in time.

Abe Ginsberg, defense attorney for the Gleemans, was to be arraigned in municipal court at St. Paul today. He was charged with subornation of perjury as result of the Gleemans' charges that he sent them to jail to protect the ring. He was the only one arrested as result of the Gleeman affidavits.

Ginsberg today pleaded not guilty to charges of subornation of perjury and demanded a preliminary hearing set for Oct. 14.

Mitchell Says Sending Shenandoah On Last Trip "Against The Law"

By WILLIAM J. McEVROY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, Sept. 30.—Sending the ill-fated naval dirigible Shenandoah westward into the storm which wrecked it and killed 14 men was "in direct violation of law," Colonel William Mitchell told the president's aircraft board today.

"It was like sending a ship to sea without lifeboats," Mitchell said. "The law provides that only actual flying men should be in command of aircraft sent out on trips like that. In my mind it was the work of bungling amateurs."

Mitchell also charged that the Shenandoah was not equipped with parachutes.

"The question of judgment in sending the ship out should not be entrusted to non-flyers," he said. "It was not even equipped with parachutes."

"It was criminal."

Mitchell referred to government statutes and an opinion of the attorney general that only flying officers should be in control of experimental voyages.

"That does not mean you should pick an admiral up off the deck of a ship and let him run our dirigibles," he continued.

"Men who had actual experience in fighting, men who have studied flying from the ground up, should be placed in control."

Says Shenandoah Should Never Have Been Sent

Mitchell said he believed the Shen-

SCHOOL TEACHER BRUTALLY BEATEN BY JILTED LOVER

LATTER THEN TURNS RIFLE ON SELF AND COMMITS SUICIDE

HAPPENED IN COUNTRY SCHOOL SHORT DISTANCE FROM FAIRMONT

Fairmont, Minn., Sept. 30.—(UP)—Ruth Ogden, 21 year old country school teacher, is in critical condition today from a brutal beating at the hands of Horden Johnson, 24, a jilted lover who committed suicide after leaving her for dead in her school house near here.

Johnson, whose attentions were said by neighbors to have been repulsed repeatedly by Miss Ogden, went to the country school late yesterday. He beat her unmercifully with his fists and left her apparently lifeless body on the floor.

A hired man on the farm where Miss Ogden boards found her unconscious when he called to take her home. Bruised and cut about the head and body, the teacher was attended by physicians today. They said her condition was serious but declared that she would recover.

Johnson ended his life with a .22 calibre rifle soon after the attack. He was a farm hand living near the school where Miss Ogden taught.

SAILSTAD CASE OF WISCONSIN MAY BE DUPLICATED

FRED G. BEALE, INSURANCE AGENT, IS SUBJECT OF A NATION-WIDE SEARCH

MAY BE INDICTED FOR VIOLATING A GRAVE NEAR BINGHAMPTON, N. Y.

Binghampton, N. Y., Sept. 30.—(UP)—Instead of being dead, Fred G. Beale, insurance broker, is the subject of a nation-wide search and probably will face a grand jury indictment for violating a grave.

With many of the details of his alleged crime similar to that of the notorious Sailstad case in Wisconsin, Delaware county is aroused.

A coroner's inquest has definitely identified the charred body which was found Friday night in the wreckage of Beale's burned automobile as that of James Davis whose grave has been looted.

It was learned that Mrs. Bolger, Beale's stenographer, had not been seen here since Saturday.

A friend said that Mr. and Mrs. Bolger had left Binghampton together and were "somewhere in South Carolina." Authorities believe, however, that Beale and his stenographer hit upon the plan of "death" so as to mask secret love affairs.

Joseph H. Beale, brother of the missing man, said he knew Beale and the Bolgers were good friends but did not believe there had been any intimacy between his brother and the stenographer.

Two years ago Edward Sailstad and Dorothy Anderson, a Chicago girl, were sent to jail after they had exhumed a body, dressed it to resemble Sailstad and then placed it in a cottage which they burned down.

FIND ALLEGED NARCOTIC PEDDLER BULLET RIDDLED

BODY OF NATE GURIN IS FOUND NEAR SUMMER HOME ON PIKE LAKE

DISCOVERED BY HENRY WEST 12 MILES FROM DULUTH

Duluth, Minn., Sept. 30.—(UP)—Federal and state authorities today expect revelations of inner dope ring workings following the finding of the bullet-riddled body of Nate Gurin, 30, St. Paul, alleged narcotic peddler.

Gurin's body was discovered by Henry West, Superior, near the West summer home on Pike Lake, 12 miles from Duluth.

Sheriff Frank Magie and federal authorities, aided by Sam Gurin, brother of the dead man, are working on the theory that Gurin was killed in a dope deal fight.

Although West is alleged to have had dealings with Gurin, he failed to identify the body when he reported the murder to authorities here.

According to West he was awakened last midnight by rifle shots, but he failed to investigate.

Gurin's body was found about 100 yards from the West home.

Closes Gurin Case in Brainerd

Nate Gurin was taken in a raid by Brainerd police, when three men were found in a local hotel, with all the accessories of opium smugglers, and the hotel room sealed so that odors from the smoking of this room could not escape and betray them.

The trio, including Gurin, was arraigned before the federal court commissioner, and each was bound over to the action of the federal court at its November term in Duluth. Gurin was liberated on bonds, pending the calling of his case.

BLINDING RAIN CAUSES MISHAPS

St. Paul, Sept. 30.—(UP)—Twelve persons were injured in and near the twin cities last night in traffic accidents when a blinding rain and slippery roads made motoring precarious.

Five men were cut and bruised when a motor bus left the road to avoid a collision with a truck near Rosemont. Others were hurt in collisions on city streets.

None was reported fatally injured at hospitals today.

TWO KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENTS AT ST. PAUL

St. Paul, Sept. 30.—(UP)—Two persons were killed in automobile accidents here today.

Ole Peterson, died early today from injuries received Monday when he was struck by a motor truck driven by Steve Anderson. Anderson is held by police without charge.

WINS SEAT IN U. S. SENATE, RACE NOT CLOSE

WINS OVER 3 INDEPENDENT CANDIDATES AND THE SOCIALIST NOMINEE

LA FOLLETTE'S VOTE EXCEEDS HIS PRIMARY VOTE BY 50,000 BALLOTS

By J. E. HELFERT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Milwaukee, Sept. 30.—Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., son of "Fighting Bob" has won the right to occupy the seat left vacant in the United States senate by the death of his father.

Voters of the state of Wisconsin at a special election yesterday decided that young Bob who has just passed his 30th year, should fill the unexpired term of his father in the senate.

The race was not even close.

LaFollette, who espoused the progressive principles in the same style that earned the name of "Fighting Bob" for his father, won over four other candidates, a conservative republican, a democrat and a socialist laborite running as independents, and the socialist nominee.

Edward F. Dithmar, conservative republican, who ran on the Co's' Age-Dawes platform, was second to LaFollette. He carried but one of the 71 counties in the state, Rock. He even lost his own county, Sauk, by a 3 to 1 count.

The vote from 2,411 precincts out of 2,691 in the state gave LaFollette 224,508; Dithmar 89,036; Work 11,085, and Bruce 10,395.

John M. Work socialist nominee, polled nearly as many votes in Milwaukee county as did Dithmar. Work ran third.

William George Bruce, democrat, running as an independent, because he failed to poll enough votes in the primary to get his name on the ballot, polled about the same number as he did in the primary and came in fourth.

George Bauman, socialist labor candidate, who ran as an independent, polled an exceptionally light vote and was a poor fifth.

Opponents of LaFollette blamed their defeat on the primary election laws of the state.

"LaFollette's victory is the result of republican discouragement due to the primary election law, which permits socialists to run as republicans and forces republicans to run as independents," said W. J. Campbell, chairman of the state republican executive committee and strong supporter of Dithmar. "This situation kept 400,000 republican votes away from the polls."

Even as the vote was being tabulated, which from the earliest returns indicated the sweeping victory of "Young Bob," progressives were calculating on placing another from their ranks in the senate in 1926 when Senator Irving L. Lenroot, incumbent, comes back for re-election.

There is every indication that Governor John J. Blaine will be the progressive candidate for United States senator against Lenroot. He will have the backing of the LaFollette organization and places further hope for success upon dissatisfaction in republican conservative ranks, resulting from the switching to Dithmar of the conservative organization's support from Roy P. Wilcox, selected as the regular republican candidate at the Oshkosh convention and who was runner-up to LaFollette in the primary.

As the first returns came in LaFollette showed a commanding lead. Then as counts came from counties in all sections of the state, Young Bob's lead increased with regularity. All returns told the same story. It was all LaFollette. Even in the first congressional district, where young Bob's father always had been beaten, the newly elected senator made unexpected inroads.

The vote of George Bauman was

WINS SEAT IN U. S. SENATE, RACE NOT CLOSE

WINS OVER 3 INDEPENDENT CANDIDATES AND THE SOCIALIST NOMINEE

LA FOLLETTE'S VOTE EXCEEDS HIS PRIMARY VOTE BY 50,000 BALLOTS

By J. E. HELPFERT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Milwaukee, Sept. 30.—Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., son of "Fighting Bob" has won the right to occupy the seat left vacant in the United States senate by the death of his father.

Voters of the state of Wisconsin at a special election yesterday decided that young Bob who has just passed his 30th year, should fill the unexpired term of his father in the senate.

The race was not even close. LaFollette, who espoused the progressive principles in the same style that earned the name of "Fighting Bob" for his father, won over four other candidates, a conservative republican, a democrat and a socialist laborite running as independents, and the socialist nominee.

Edward F. Dithmar, conservative republican, who ran on the Cooledge-Dawes platform, was second to LaFollette. He carried but one of the 71 counties in the state, Rock. He even lost his own county, Sauk, by a 3 to 1 count.

The vote from 2,411 precincts out of 2,691 in the state gave LaFollette 224,508; Dithmar 89,036; Work 11,085, and Bruce 10,395.

John M. Work socialist nominee, polled nearly as many votes in Milwaukee county as did Dithmar. Work ran third.

William George Bruce, democrat, running as an independent, because he failed to poll enough votes in the primary to get his name on the ballot, polled about the same number as he did in the primary and came in fourth.

George Bauman, socialist labor candidate, who ran as an independent, polled an exceptionally light vote and was a poor fifth.

Opponents of LaFollette blamed their defeat on the primary election laws of the state.

"LaFollette's victory is the result of republican discouragement due to the primary election law, which permits socialists to run as republicans and forces republicans to run as independents," said W. J. Campbell, chairman of the state republican executive committee and strong supporter of Dithmar. "This situation kept 400,000 republican votes away from the polls."

Even as the vote was being tabulated, which from the earliest returns indicated the sweeping victory of "Young Bob," progressives were calculating on placing another from their ranks in the senate in 1926 when Senator Irvine L. Lenroot, incumbent, comes back for re-election.

There is every indication that Governor John J. Blaine will be the progressive candidate for United States senator against Lenroot. He will have the backing of the LaFollette organization and places further hope for success upon dissatisfaction in republican conservative ranks, resulting from the switching to Dithmar of the conservative organization's support from Roy P. Wilcox, selected as the regular republican candidate at the Oshkosh convention and who was runner-up to LaFollette in the primary.

As the first returns came in LaFollette showed a commanding lead. Then as counts came from counties in all sections of the state, Young Bob's lead increased with regularity. All returns told the same story. It was all LaFollette. Even in the first congressional district, where young Bob's father always had been beaten, the newly elected senator made unexpected inroads.

The vote of George Bauman was

That remark was made by a young lady who brought her bank in to us the other day to be opened. She had been dropping in the nickels and dimes that came to her from week to week, and she was absolutely astonished when we opened the little bank and counted her savings.

She started a savings account and will use the same system again.

KAPPA DELPHIANS

Unusually Good Attendance Present Last Night at Home of Mrs. R. Strader

(Contributed)

The Kappa Delphian chapter held its regular meeting last evening at the home of Mrs. R. Strader, with an unusually good attendance considering the weather.

Regular routine business gave way to election of officers resulting in the following titles:

Mrs. R. Strader—President.
Mrs. C. D. McKay—Vice President.
Mrs. S. S. Newman—Secretary.
Mrs. Lammon, Mrs. Murphy, Mrs. Rasch, members of advisory board, who elect their own chairman.

The chapter, under the leadership of Mrs. Rasch, spent the remainder of the evening listening to an excellent review of the early development of Greek drama by the acting president, Mrs. Walter Murphy, who also gave the story of Sophocles' "Antigone." While we cannot reach the great New York theatres where this immortal tragedy was recently given we can at least form a taste within our own minds for the better things on the stage by reading and re-reading and listening to the reading of the texts of these dramas which have lived down through thirty centuries. Mrs. Strader gave the story of Euripides' "Iphigenia" in her usual manner which qualifies her for membership in any club of her choice that might carry the motto of the coast guard, "S—P—", "Always Ready."

The dramatic reading of "Iphigenia" by Mrs. Strader as the heroine, Miss Grewcock, as Orestes, and Mrs. Lammon as Pylades, gave exercise not only to the emotions but in vocalization, enunciation, pronunciation and several other "actions" including stirring of each imagination, these participants having had five-minute notice of their assignment.

This is only an atom of the training as offered by the National Delphian society.

"By doing a little directed thinking every day you will add to your knowledge, but more than that you will develop your powers of originality. College folk are not in most of the positions requiring ability to think because they have better brains, but because they have systematically practiced directed thinking for four years. The Delphian chapter is your opportunity to get this sort of training."

Addresses

ON TUESDAY, OCTOBER 13TH

Will Talk to Club, School Children, to Men And Women of City

The Brainerd Rotary club has arranged to bring Dr. Charles E. Barker of Grand Rapids, Mich., to the city on Tuesday, October 13th, for a series of inspirational addresses to children of high school age, to men and to women. The place and hour of these addresses have not as yet been settled.

Dr. Barker will speak to the school children on the subject, "How to make the most out of life." His address to women will be, "A mother's responsibility to her daughter," and to the men, "A father's responsibility to his son." Girls over 14 years of age will be welcome to the address to women, and boys above the same age will be admitted to the men's address.

Dr. Barker handles his subjects forcefully and entertainingly, and what he has to say is timely and inspiring. The doctor is unique and any attempt to describe him is sure to omit much that should be said. He is a man of wide experience and his addresses are of such a high calibre that all should avail themselves of the opportunity to hear him.

This is the man who kept William Howard Taft physically fit and on the job every day while he was president of the United States, after which he has been giving his time to the public, and has delivered a total of more than 3,500 addresses before audiences aggregating more than 3,500,000.

Dr. Barker's addresses are straightforward messages to mothers and fathers, young men and young women. His suggestions are not only practically helpful and informative, but have proven of untold value in bringing parents closer to their children than ever before. He is intensely human; thoroughly in earnest, with a motive that is genuinely unselfish—the desire to be of real service to mankind.

The public is asked to keep the date in mind, and to watch the Dispatch for further announcements as to the place and hours that the addresses will be delivered.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 30.—(UP)—Thirteen of the 16 competing airplanes in the Ford reliability tour had taken off from the Fort Crook flying field at 9 a. m. today for the trip to St. Joseph, Mo.

The other three, including the Curtiss carrier pigeon plane, piloted by Casey Jones, which was damaged in landing here yesterday, expected to take off in a few hours. They were held up by a shortage of gasoline and oil at the field.

Jones succeeded in making repairs on his plane, which collided with a motorcycle on landing yesterday, during the night and expressed the belief that he would be able to finish the tour.

BODY OF WARROAD BOY IS FOUND BY SEARCHERS TODAY

Warroad, Minn., Sept. 30.—(UP)—The body of Arnold Arneson, 15, who with his brother, Harold, 17, had been missing for a week was found late yesterday by searching parties. Hunt for the other boy was continued today. The brothers were left to bail out a boat last week preparatory to a hunting expedition on the Lake of the Woods and search was started when they failed to return home.

A TEST OF YEARS

Is the Experience of This Brainerd Resident

Are you miserable with an aching back? Feel tired, nervous and run down? Do you have daily headaches, dizzy spells and annoying urinary disorders? Then why not take the advice of a Brainerd resident who suffered as you do and found lasting relief by using Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys? Here is a Brainerd case that the years haven't changed. Why not profit by it?

Mrs. R. Noakes, 311 9th St., S., says: "My kidneys were disordered. My feet swelled so I couldn't wear my shoes. I also had a tired, depressed feeling but nothing I did helped me until I used Doan's Pills. Four boxes of Doan's cured me." SEVERAL YEARS LATER Mrs. Noakes said: "The cure I received from using Doan's Pills has been permanent." 60c. at all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv't.

"SOME WILD NOTIONS I HAVE KNOWN"

By the REV. ROY L. SMITH, D. D.
Pastor Simpson M. E. Church, Minneapolis

"LET THE PUNISHMENT FIT THE CRIME"

Laws are not written to insure vengeance but to guarantee justice. The better way is to make the punishment fit the criminal. Many a child, reared in ignorance and denied the chance to have an education, exposed to disease, surrounded by immorality and schooled in knavery has been literally "born into sin."

Let the punishment fit the criminal. If society has submerged him in crime from the day of his birth until his graduation into the courts, then the community is on trial with the criminal.

Crimes may be the same but criminals are different. Stealing a loaf of bread may be a crime, but taking an extra ten cents with the selling price may be "good business." The bread thief is liable to go to prison. The profiteer sometimes gets into good society.

The object of punishment is to make a citizen out of a criminal. Any punishment that makes the criminal less willing to abide by the laws and more an enemy of society—less ready to be his best and more anxious to war on his fellows—has been a failure both from the standpoint of society and from the standpoint of the criminal.

The punishment that fits the crime takes an eye for an eye. The punishment that fits the criminal undertakes to put an eye for knowledge where there is none, a sensibility of responsibility where none has been and a worthy motive where outlawry has reigned.

TRAGIC LUCK TRAILING THE NAVY'S WORK

sea so rough that Admiral Christy could only call off operations for the day. It was not even possible to allow divers to explore the hull, for the under current was too heavy. If diving were to continue it would have meant that the divers' lives would be jeopardized.

With this new strain of ill luck, the hopes for finding any men alive vanished almost completely. The navy men had said during the forenoon that they had expectations but no hope in connection with finding any men alive.

Replying to a telegram received from Admiral H. H. Christy, commander of the patrol force in charge of rescue operations, in which Christy recommended that the navy department officially abandon hope and switch from "rescue" to "salvage" operations, Wilbur radioed him instructions to "carry on."

The action was taken by Sec. Wilbur despite the fact that the navy almost unanimously considers further rescue work a forlorn hope. His decision was reached after a conference with Admiral E. W. Eberle, chief of naval operations.

RECEIVE NEWS WITHOUT COMMENT

New London, Conn., Sept. 30.—

Wilbur had ordered continuance of rescue operations on the sunken submarine S-51, was received here this afternoon without comment.

It meant that further attempts to hoist the submarine and to explore her angled interior must be made. As far as the officers here knew, the Merritt-Chapman company will try the hoisting whenever the weather permitted.

There were indications, however, that the wrecking concern felt that the task was quite hopeless, and it is assumed that recommendations by Admiral Christy to convert the rescue operation into a salvage operation were based in part, at least, upon the position of the company.

SECRETARY OF NAVY FAILS TO GIVE UP HOPE

Washington, Sept. 30.—Secretary of the Navy Wilbur today refused

officially to abandon hope of rescuing the crew of the submarine S-51.

A court of inquiry to investigate the causes and fix the responsibility for the sinking of the S-51 was appointed by Wilbur today with orders to convene at the Boston navy yard on Oct. 15, or as soon thereafter as possible.

The court will be headed by Captain S. P. Jackson, commandant of the Boston navy yard, with Lieut. Commander Charles A. Lockwood as judge advocate.

Other members are Captains Walter M. Hunt and David A. Weaver.

STOP SIGNS ALONG NORTHERN PACIFIC

St. Paul, Sept. 30.—(UP)—Installation of 138 stop signs at railroad crossings along the Northern Pacific tracks has been ordered by the Railroad and Warehouse commission as the first step in a drive against grade crossing accidents.

The order carries out provisions of an act passed at the last session of the state legislature. Other railroads are to be surveyed to determine danger spots where stop signs are necessary to safety.

Violations of the law providing that motorists must come to a full stop where the signs are displayed are to be vigorously prosecuted, the commission announced.

ESTABLISHED ALIBI AND IS RELEASED

Sioux City, Ia., Sept. 30.—(UP)—Archie Blanchard of Madison, Wis., was released by the police today after being held several days in connection with the deaths of Mrs. Elizabeth Anthony and Mrs. Josephine Goodwin, sisters, whose bodies were found in their gas filled house, July 12. Blanchard established a satisfactory alibi.

13 AIRPLANES IN RELIABILITY TOUR LEAVE OMAHA, NEB.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 30.—(UP)—Thirteen of the 16 competing airplanes in the Ford reliability tour had taken off from the Fort Crook flying field at 9 a. m. today for the trip to St. Joseph, Mo.

The other three, including the Curtiss carrier pigeon plane, piloted by Casey Jones, which was damaged in landing here yesterday, expected to take off in a few hours. They were held up by a shortage of gasoline and oil at the field.

Jones succeeded in making repairs on his plane, which collided with a motorcycle on landing yesterday, during the night and expressed the belief that he would be able to finish the tour.

BODY OF WARROAD BOY IS FOUND BY SEARCHERS TODAY

Warroad, Minn., Sept. 30.—(UP)—The body of Arnold Arneson, 15, who with his brother, Harold, 17, had been missing for a week was found late yesterday by searching parties. Hunt for the other boy was continued today. The brothers were left to bail out a boat last week preparatory to a hunting expedition on the Lake of the Woods and search was started when they failed to return home.

A TEST OF YEARS

Is the Experience of This Brainerd Resident

Are you miserable with an aching back? Feel tired, nervous and run down? Do you have daily headaches, dizzy spells and annoying urinary disorders? Then why not take the advice of a Brainerd resident who suffered as you do and found lasting relief by using Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys? Here is a Brainerd case that the years haven't changed. Why not profit by it?

Mrs. R. Noakes, 311 9th St., S., says: "My kidneys were disordered. My feet swelled so I couldn't wear my shoes. I also had a tired, depressed feeling but nothing I did helped me until I used Doan's Pills. Four boxes of Doan's cured me."

SEVERAL YEARS LATER Mrs. Noakes said: "The cure I received from using Doan's Pills has been permanent."

"SOME WILD NOTIONS I HAVE KNOWN"

By the REV. ROY L. SMITH, D. D.
Pastor Simpson M. E. Church, Minneapolis

"LET THE PUNISHMENT FIT THE CRIME"

Laws are not written to insure vengeance but to guarantee justice. The better way is to make the punishment fit the criminal.

Many a child, reared in ignorance and denied the chance to have an education, exposed to disease, surrounded by immorality and schooled in knavery has been literally "born into sin."

Let the punishment fit the criminal. If society has submerged him in crime from the day of his birth until his graduation into the courts, then the community is on trial with the criminal.

Crimes may be the same but criminals are different.

Stealing a loaf of bread may be a crime, but taking an extra ten cents with the selling price may be "good business." The bread thief is liable to go to prison. The profiteer sometimes gets into good society.

The object of punishment is to make a citizen out of a criminal.

Any punishment that makes the criminal less willing to abide by the laws and more an enemy of society—less ready to be his best and more anxious to war on his fellows—has been a failure both from the standpoint of society and from the standpoint of the criminal.

The punishment that fits the crime takes an eye for an eye.

The punishment that fits the criminal undertakes to put an eye for knowledge where there is none, a sensibility of responsibility where none has been and a worthy motive where outlawry has reigned.

TRAGIC LUCK TRAILING THE NAVY'S WORK

sea so rough that Admiral Christy could only call off operations for the day. It was not even possible to allow divers to explore the hull, for the under current was too heavy. If diving were to continue it would have meant that the divers' lives would be jeopardized.

With this new strain of ill luck, the hopes for finding any men alive vanished almost completely. The navy men had said during the forenoon that they had expectations but no hope in connection with finding any men alive.

Replying to a telegram received from Admiral H. H. Christy, commander of the patrol force in charge of rescue operations, in which Christy recommended that the navy department officially abandon hope and switch from "rescue" to "salvage" operations, Wilbur radiated him instructions to "carry on."

The action was taken by Sec. Wilbur despite the fact that the navy almost unanimously considers further rescue work a forlorn hope. His decision was reached after a conference with Admiral E. W. Eberle, chief of naval operations.

RECEIVE NEWS WITHOUT COMMENT

New London, Conn., Sept. 30.—

Wilbur had ordered continuance of rescue operations on the sunken submarine S-51, was received here this afternoon without comment.

It meant that further attempts to hoist the submarine and to explore her angled interior must be made. As far as the officers here knew, the Merritt-Chapman company will try the hoisting whenever the weather permitted.

There were indications, however, that the wrecking concern felt that the task was quite hopeless, and it is assumed that recommendations by Admiral Christy to convert the rescue operation into a salvage operation were based in part, at least, upon the position of the company.

SECRETARY OF NAVY FAILS TO GIVE UP HOPE

Washington, Sept. 30.—Secretary of the Navy Wilbur today refused

officially to abandon hope of rescuing the crew of the submarine S-51.

A court of inquiry to investigate the causes and fix the responsibility for the sinking of the S-51 was appointed by Wilbur today with orders to convene at the Boston navy yard on Oct. 15, or as soon thereafter as possible.

The court will be headed by Captain S. P. Jackson, commandant of the Boston navy yard, with Lieut. Commander Charles A. Lockwood as judge advocate.

Other members are Captains Walter M. Hunt and David A. Weaver.

STOP SIGNS ALONG NORTHERN PACIFIC

St. Paul, Sept. 30.—(UP)—Installation of 138 stop signs at railroad crossings along the Northern Pacific tracks has been ordered by the Railroad and Warehouse commission as the first step in a drive against grade crossing accidents.

The order carries out provisions of an act passed at the last session of the state legislature. Other railroads are to be surveyed to determine danger spots where stop signs are necessary to safety.

Violations of the law providing that motorists must come to a full stop where the signs are displayed are to be vigorously prosecuted, the commission announced.

ESTABLISHED ALIBI AND IS RELEASED

Sioux City, Ia., Sept. 30.—(UP)—Archie Blanchard of Madison, Wis., was released by the police today after being held several days in connection with the deaths of Mrs. Elizabeth Anthony and Mrs. Josephine Goodwin, sisters, whose bodies were found in their gas filled house, July 12. Blanchard established a satisfactory alibi.

Why Gum-Dipping is so Important to Car Owners

GUM-DIPPING—the Firestone extra process builds into tires extra quality by impregnating and insulating every fiber of every cord with rubber.

This exclusive method is carried out in special Gum-Dipping plants, after which the cords are put through the usual calendaring process.

By this method, added strength and flexibility are imparted to the cords, making Gum-Dipped Balloons most serviceable and enduring over rough roads.

PROHIBITION ENFORCEMENT IN PHILADELPHIA

It's disheartening to try to dry up a town and then have but few people express any interest in the matter, and to have but one person out of 2,000,000 residents express any regret when one is to leave, but that is the experience of Brigadier General Butler, of the Marines, who was sent to Philadelphia to "mop up" that city. For 20 months he has served as Director of Public Safety.

He says the city is lax in backing up his battle against lawlessness and too many people are playing the game of "enforce the law against others but not against me." Law enforcement on an absolutely even basis has not had the support of the people of Philadelphia, and does not have it now, says Mr. Butler.

According to the New York Times, he pointed out that in 1923 the police made 913 arrests in liquor cases; in 1924, 5,757, and so far this year, 6,080. In 1923 there were 595 convictions, in 1924 there were 1,260 and this year only 212.

The brigadier general's leave from the Marine Corps expires on December 31, when he has been assigned to make an inspection of marine posts around the world. The announcement was made a few weeks ago.

"Since that time," says Mr. Butler, "out of the 2,000,000 residents of Philadelphia, one person only has expressed any regret that I am to go. That one person is Mayor Kendrick. No other person, institution or organization has raised any voice in protest, nor expressed to me any regret. Either I am unpopular, or the enforcement of the liquor laws is unpopular in Philadelphia."

UNITED STATES A CARELESS NATION

THE United States has been declared a most careless nation. The National Safety Congress has declared it. The American accident rate is 76.3 per 100,000 of population, or almost two and one-third times the accident rate for England, the world's second most careless nation.

With its speed, flivvers and gasoline, this country of the U. S. A. leads the world in automobile accidents. Automobile fatalities run as high as 14.8 to every 100,000 population. This means that every hour of the day more than two persons are sacrificed.

Accidents to children are also on the increase. Some 21,000 boys and girls were killed during the past year and at least 500,000 were injured. The killed on streets and highways numbered 7,000 and children burned to death numbered nearly 5,000.

When one couples with this other peace time accidents in the industrial world, the army and navy, not necessarily careless, but accidents, one quickly sees that the death toll in time of peace is often larger than a year of world war.

FORD DOESN'T LIKE COWS

THE Land O' Lakes News, one of the new exchanges on THE DISPATCH desk, tells how Henry Ford has got it in for cows, horses and everything that doesn't run on four wheels and burn gas. He said in a recent interview that it was a waste of time taking care of cows and that milk was not necessary. Yet he keeps a hundred and fifty cows to supply milk for his Dearborn Hospital and several teams did the cultivation of his corn.

It must be that Henry was not raised on a bottle. He says that someone will soon invent synthetic milk and then the old cow will be put away for good. If it was not for the old cow in America just what use could all the two, three and four year old Fords be put to if not waiting to unload a few cans of cream and milk at the receiving room in our creameries. If it wasn't for the old cow the tin in a Lizzie wouldn't be worth a second hand clay pipe. Say, Henry, after your spiel about the cow you should be ashamed to look one in the face. But much as he has it in for a cow he can still throw the masculine bovine.

OLDER BOYS CONFERENCE OF STATE Y. M. C. A.

EIGHT hundred Minnesota high school boys will probably attend the first Older Boys Conference of the State Y. M. C. A. to be held in the Twin Cities. The conference will be attended by the leaders of many of the high schools of Minnesota.

Last year 994 boys came to the four conferences held in Redwood Falls, Red Wing, Duluth and Crookston. Fifty-five towns and cities were represented. The conference is a part of the boys division of the State Y. M. C. A. Bruce W. Tallman, State Boys' Work secretary, is executive secretary.

At Duluth last year Brainerd Y. M. C. A. was represented by four boys and men. Secretary Dillan expects to have a good delegation this year.

MAYOR HYLAN of New York and William Wirt Mills, Commissioner of Plants and Structures, have been restrained by injunction from using the municipal radio for private political purposes. Justice Mahoney who heard the case brought by a taxpayer likened the misuse of the station to taking city cars on personal excursions.

WE are well aware of the fact that styles in clothes change. But we didn't know that there are also styles in complexion. A London item declares that autumn's most fashionable evening "make-up" for faces is a "dead white," and the type of face best adapted for such treatment, we won't say painting, is the fair and smooth skinned.

STUDENTS of psychology have found that a poor breakfast puts a man in bad humor the rest of the day. It has even been declared that muddy coffee and poor toast and burned oatmeal and tainted milk so warps the mind of a car driver, that the abstraction of mind results in many traffic accidents.

A "BULLDOGGER" in the cattle country is a cowboy who can throw a bull, that is, grab the animal by the horns and throw it flat on its back. This whole proceeding is an actual throwing of the bull and not a metaphor such as is commonly made use of when one spills a lot of hot air.

MITCHELL SAYS SENDING SHENANDOAH ON LAST TRIP 'AGAINST THE LAW'

eral attacks during the war and finally put a united air force into effect.

"Today she has an efficient air corps. She is steadily increasing her supply of planes and appropriations for the air force. She has the fastest service ships in the world today."

"How do our pursuit planes compare with England's?" Morrow asked.

"England has the best," Mitchell snapped back.

When Rep. Vinson of Georgia brought the subject back to the Shenandoah, Mitchell declared:

"I believe the Shenandoah was on a propaganda mission. I believe it was criminal to send the ship out without parachutes on a long voyage like that. It was like sending a ship out to sea without life boats or rafts."

No Action on Shenandoah Charges
Chairman Morrow of the board announced that it would take no action on Mitchell's charges that the navy officials who ordered the Shenandoah westward are liable to prosecution.

"We are not going into that matter," Morrow said. "An official investigation now is being conducted by the naval board of inquiry at Lakehurst, and that, of course, is a matter for them to determine."

It is expected that in view of Mitchell's statements he might be asked to appear before the naval court of inquiry.

England is constantly making improvements in planes, Mitchell said. France has 1,200 planes on a war footing in Alsace-Lorraine, ready to strike at any time. Altogether France has about 1,500 planes.

Asked about the use of planes in the French-Russian war, Mitchell said:

"You couldn't use planes there. You need cavalry that will follow those people down to the caves where they hide. They have no herds or transportation open to bombing from the air. The air service, of course, can't do everything. Surface ships, gasoline trains and those things are our meat."

France is aspiring to control the air, just like England is aspiring to control the seas, Mitchell said. Japan is following the tactics of French aviation, and the Japanese are good flyers, you can bet your life on that," he said.

"They are working on aviation all the time and they are making advancements. They are sure to have a real substantial air force."

When Mitchell completed his testimony and left the stand the crowd applauded.

After a short recess, Major Leslie MacDill, chief air service engineer, McCook field, Ohio, was called. Like other flyers, he advocated establishment of a separate air corps in the war department. He opposed a unified air service.

After announcing that Commander John Rodgers, head of the unsuccessful flight, would appear Friday, Chairman Morrow recessed the session until this afternoon.

EXPECT TO HEAR "DESTRUCTIVE TESTIMONY"

Washington, Sept. 30.—The president's aviation inquiry board met today with the expectation of hearing Colonel William Mitchell, storm center of the aircraft controversy, present his "destructive" testimony on the second day on the witness stand.

Mitchell told the court yesterday he was reluctant to offer this "destructive statement," which he had prepared. Chairman Dwight Morrow told him the board was unanimous in the opinion that he should "put in everything."

When the session adjourned last night Mitchell said he would read the statement, but later told friends he was undecided.

Many army aviators who support Mitchell's advocacy of a unified air service (equal in rank to the army and navy believe their leader will either make or break himself and their cause by his decision and testimony today.

CAPTAIN HEINEN REITERATES CHARGES

Lakehurst, N. J., Sept. 30.—(UP)—Captain Anton Heinen, German dirigible expert, reiterated his charges that the destruction of the dirigible Shenandoah was directly due to reduction of the safety valves on the gas cells from eighteen to eight, when he testified this afternoon before the court of inquiry investigating the Shenandoah disaster.

"I said and I now maintain that structural changes in the safety valve system was the main cause of the ship's destruction," Heinen said.

"I will not contend it was the only reason for the disaster," he added, however.

STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE HEADS MEET AT MOORHEAD

Moorhead, Minn., Sept. 30.—(UP)—Presidents of six Minnesota state teachers colleges met here today with the state teachers' college board to present quarterly reports.

Attendance records showed an increase in all but two of the schools. In these cases a decrease in demand for trained teachers was said to be responsible.

Minor improvements in the physical plants and revisions in curriculum with opening of school this fall were reported by some of the presidents.

Enrollment figures as officially reported follow:

St. Cloud 1015; Mankato 715; Winona 590; Moorhead 533; Duluth 321; and Bemidji 241.

ALL RUN DOWN, NOW HEALTHY

"Honestly, in all my 15 years of experience as a nurse I have never known of a medicine that compares with Tanlac." Is the glowing tribute of Nurse M. E. Chappelle.

"Time and again I have recommended Tanlac and always with surprising results. Some time ago my Mother complained of being generally run down and on the verge of a nervous breakdown. She had no appetite, her stomach was disordered, digestion weakened and her bowels were most irregular.

Tanlac came to her aid at once, brought on a vigorous appetite so that she began to eat with the greatest relish, and made the digestive organs function properly once more. In a short time she was well, happy and strong, and although over 80 years of age she is now vigorous enough to look after her household duties and go out quite a little, too. This is why I praise Tanlac and consider it the best tonic and health builder ever discovered."

What Tanlac has done for others it can also do for you. Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

THE United States has been declared a most careless nation. The National Safety Congress has declared it. The American accident rate is 76.3 per 100,000 of population, or almost two and one-third times the accident rate for England, the world's second most careless nation.

With its speed, flivvers and gasoline, this country of the U. S. A. leads the world in automobile accidents. Automobile fatalities run as high as 14.8 to every 100,000 population. This means that every hour of the day more than two persons are sacrificed.

Accidents to children are also on the increase. Some 21,000 boys and girls were killed during the past year and at least 500,000 were injured. The killed on streets and highways numbered 7,000 and children burned to death numbered nearly 5,000.

When one couples with this other peace time accidents in the industrial world, the army and navy, not necessarily careless, but accidents, one quickly sees that the death toll in time of peace is often larger than a year of world war.

FORD DOESN'T LIKE COWS

THE Land O' Lakes News, one of the new exchanges on THE DISPATCH desk, tells how Henry Ford has got it in for cows, horses and everything that doesn't run on four wheels and burn gas. He said in a recent interview that it was a waste of time taking care of cows and that milk was not necessary. Yet he keeps a hundred and fifty cows to supply milk for his Dearborn Hospital and several teams did the cultivation of his corn.

It must be that Henry was not raised on a bottle. He says that someone will soon invent synthetic milk and then the old cow will be put away for good. If it was not for the old cow in America just what use could all the two, three and four year old Fords be put to if not waiting to unload a few cans of cream and milk at the receiving room in our creameries. If it wasn't for the old cow the tin in a Lizzie wouldn't be worth a second hand clay pipe. Say, Henry, after your spiel about the cow you should be ashamed to look one in the face. But much as he has it in for a cow he can still throw the masculine bovine.

OLDER BOYS CONFERENCE OF STATE Y. M. C. A.

EIGHT hundred Minnesota high school boys will probably attend the first Older Boys Conference of the State Y. M. C. A. to be held in the Twin Cities. The conference will be attended by the leaders of many of the high schools of Minnesota.

Last year 994 boys came to the four conferences held in Redwood Falls, Red Wing, Duluth and Crookston. Fifty-five towns and cities were represented. The conference is a part of the boys division of the State Y. M. C. A. Bruce W. Tallman, State Boys' Work secretary, is executive secretary.

At Duluth last year Brainerd Y. M. C. A. was represented by four boys and men. Secretary Dillan expects to have a good delegation this year.

MAYOR Hylan of New York and William Wirt Mills, Commissioner of Plants and Structures, have been restrained by injunction from using the municipal radio for private political purposes. Justice Mahoney who heard the case brought by a taxpayer likened the misuse of the station to taking city cars on personal excursions.

WE are well aware of the fact that styles in clothes change. But we didn't know that there are also styles in complexion. A London item declares that autumn's most fashionable evening "make-up" for faces is a "dead white," and the type of face best adapted for such treatment, we won't say painting, is the fair and smooth skinned.

STUDENTS of psychology have found that a poor breakfast puts a man in bad humor the rest of the day. It has even been declared that muddy coffee and poor toast and burned oatmeal and tainted milk so warps the mind of a car driver, that the abstraction of mind results in many traffic accidents.

A "BULLDOGGER" in the cattle country is a cowboy who can throw a bull, that is, grab the animal by the horns and throw it flat on its back. This whole proceeding is an actual throwing of the bull and not a metaphor such as is commonly made use of when one spills a lot of hot air.

MITCHELL SAYS SENDING SHENANDOAH ON LAST TRIP 'AGAINST THE LAW'

eral attacks during the war and finally put a united air force into effect.

"Today she has an efficient air corps. She is steadily increasing her supply of planes and appropriations for the air force. She has the fastest service ships in the world today."

"How do our pursuit planes compare with England's?" Morrow asked.

"England has the best," Mitchell snapped back.

When Rep. Vinson of Georgia brought the subject back to the Shenandoah, Mitchell declared:

"I believe the Shenandoah was on a propaganda mission. I believe it was criminal to send the ship out without parachutes on a long voyage like that. It was like sending a ship out to sea without life boats or rafts."

No Action on Shenandoah Charges

Chairman Morrow of the board announced that it would take no action on Mitchell's charges that the navy officials who ordered the Shenandoah westward are liable to prosecution.

"We are not going into that matter," Morrow said. "An official investigation now is being conducted by the naval board of inquiry at Lakehurst, and that, of course, is a matter for them to determine."

It is expected that in view of Mitchell's statements he might be asked to appear before the naval court of inquiry.

England is constantly making improvements in planes, Mitchell said. France has 1,200 planes on a war footing in Alsace-Lorraine, ready to strike at any time. Altogether France has about 1,500 planes.

Asked about the use of planes in the French-Riffian war, Mitchell said:

"You couldn't use planes there. You need cavalry that will follow those people down to the caves where they hide. They have no herds or transportation open to bombing from the air."

"The air service, of course, can't do everything. Surface ships, gasoline trains and those things are our meat."

France is aspiring to control the air, just like England is aspiring to control the seas, Mitchell said. Japan is following the tactics of French aviation, "and the Japanese are good flyers, you can bet your life on that," he said.

"They are working on aviation all the time and they are making advancements. They are sure to have a real substantial air force."

When Mitchell completed his testimony and left the stand the crowd applauded.

After a short recess, Major Leslie MacDill, chief air service engineer, McCook field, Ohio, was called. Like other flyers, he advocated establishment of a separate air corps in the war department. He opposed a unified air service.

After announcing that Commander John Rodgers, head of the unsuccessful flight, would appear Friday, Chairman Morrow recessed the session until this afternoon.

EXPECT TO HEAR "DESTRUCTIVE TESTIMONY"

Washington, Sept. 30.—The president's aviation inquiry board met today with the expectation of hearing Colonel William Mitchell, storm center of the aircraft controversy, present his "destructive" testimony on the second day on the witness stand.

Mitchell told the court yesterday he was reluctant to offer this "destructive statement," which he had prepared. Chairman Dwight Morrow told him the board was unanimous in the opinion that he should "put in everything."

When the session adjourned last night Mitchell said he would read the statement, but later told friends he was undecided.

Many army aviators who support Mitchell's advocacy of a unified air service concur in rank to the army and navy believe their leader will either make or break himself and their cause by his decision and testimony today.

STATE EMPLOYEES ARE UNEASY TODAY

St. Paul, Sept. 30.—(UP)—State employees were manifestly uneasy today with two discharged and further cuts in the payroll imminent as the administration pursued its economy program.

Victims of the economy program thus far are Robert Braden, deputy state fire marshal, and Miss Margaret Lowe, postmistress.

CAPTAIN HEINEN REITERATES CHARGES

Lakehurst, N. J., Sept. 30.—(UP)—Captain Anton Heinen, German dirigible expert, reiterated his charges that the destruction of the dirigible Shenandoah was directly due to reduction of the safety valves on the gas cells from eighteen to eight, when he testified this afternoon before the court of inquiry investigating the Shenandoah disaster.

"I said and I now maintain that structural changes in the safety valve system was the main cause of the ship's destruction," Heinen said.

"I will not contend it was the only reason for the disaster," he added, however.

STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE HEADS MEET AT MOORHEAD

Moorhead, Minn., Sept. 30.—(UP)—Presidents of six Minnesota state teachers colleges met here today with the state teachers' college board to present quarterly reports.

Attendance records showed an increase in all but two of the schools. In these cases a decrease in demand for trained teachers was said to be responsible.

Minor improvements in the physical plants and revisions in curriculum with opening of school this fall were reported by some of the presidents.

Enrollment figures as officially reported follow:

St. Cloud 1015; Mankato 715; Winona 590; Moorhead 533; Duluth 321; and Bemidji 241.

ALL RUN DOWN, NOW HEALTHY

"Honestly, in all my 15 years of experience as a nurse I have never known of a medicine that compares with Tanlac." is the glowing tribute of Nurse M. E. Chappelle.
"Time and again I have recommended Tanlac and always with surprising results. Some time ago my mother complained of being generally run down and on the verge of a nervous breakdown. She had no appetite, her stomach was disordered, digestion weakened and her bowels were most irregular.
"Tanlac came to her aid at once, brought on a vigorous appetite so that she began to eat with the greatest relish, and made the digestive organs function properly once more. In a short time she was well, happy and strong, and although over 80 years of age she is now vigorous enough to look after her household duties and go out quite a little, too. This is why I praise Tanlac and consider it the best tonic and health builder ever discovered."
What Tanlac has done for others it can also do for you. Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

THE STORY THUS FAR

Pierce Phillips, at Sheep Camp, in the Yukon country, where he had gone to join the mad rush of miners in quest of gold, has been wrongly accused of stealing provisions. At a mob meeting of miners he is brought to trial along with Jim and Joe McCaskey. The McCaskeys brothers shift the guilt to him and despite all that his friends, "Poleon Doret" and Countess Courtesan, can do the mob is bent on hanging him.

In a fight with Jim McCaskey, who has insulted the Countess with whom Phillips has formed a fond attachment, it is discovered that the McCaskeys are the guilty ones. At the pitch of excitement Jim McCaskey escapes and some one in the mob shoots him dead.

At the first stroke of the descending whip a howl went up—a merciless howl, a howl of fierce exultation. Joe McCaskey rocked forward upon the balls of his feet; his frame was racked by a spasm of agony; he strained at his thongs until his shoulder muscles swelled. The flesh of his back knotted and writhed; livid streaks leaped out upon it, then turned crimson and began to trickle blood.

"One!" roared the mob. The wielder of the scourge swung his weapon again; again the leather strips wrapped around the victim's ribs and laid open their defenseless covering.

"Two!" McCaskey lunged forward, then strained backward; the tent-frame creaked as he pulled at it. His head was drawn far back between his shoulders, his face was convulsed, and his gums were bared in a skyward grin. If he uttered any sound it was lost in the uproar.

"Three!" It was a frightful punishment. The man's flesh was being stripped from his bones.

"Four!"

"Five!"

The count went on monotonously, for the fellow with the whip swung slowly, putting his whole strength behind every blow. When it had climbed to eight the prisoner's body was dripping with blood, his trousers-band was sodden with it. When it had reached ten he hung suspended by his wrists and only a fierce involuntary muscular reaction answered the caress of the nine lashes.

Forty stripes had been voted as the penalty, but "Poleon Doret" vaulted to the platform, seized the upraised whip, and tore it from the executioner's hand. He turned upon the crowd a countenance white with fury and disgust.

"Enough!" he shouted. "By Gar! You keep him next! If you must whip somebody, whip me; dish feller's mos' dead." He strode to the post and with a slash of his hunting knife cut McCaskey down.

This action was greeted with an angry yell of protest; there was a rush toward the platform, but "Poleon" was joined by the leader of the posse, who scrambled through the press and ranged himself in opposition to the audience. The old man was likewise satiated with this torture; his face was wet with sweat; beneath his drooping gray mustache his teeth were set.

"Back up, you hyenas!" he cried, shrilly. "The show is over. The man took his medicine and he took it like a man. He's had enough."

"Gimme the whip, I'll finish the job," some one shouted.

The former speaker bent forward abristle with defiance.

"You try it!" he spat out. "You touch that whip and by God, I'll kill you!"

He lent point to this threat by drawing and cocking his six-shooter. "If you men ain't had enough blood for one day, I'll let a little more for you." His words ended in a torrent of profanity.

"Climb aboard!" he shrieked. "Who's got the guts to try?"

Doret spoke to him shortly. "Dese men ain't goin' mak' no trouble, m'sieu." With that he turned his back and, heedless of the clamor, began to minister to the bleeding man. He had provided himself with a bottle of lotion, doubtless some antiseptic snatched from the canvas drug-store down the street, and with this he wet a handkerchief; then he washed McCaskey's lacerated back.

A member of the committee joined him in this work of mercy; soon others came to their assistance, and gradually the crowd began breaking up. Some one handed the sufferer a drink of whiskey, which revived him considerably, and by the time he was ready to receive his upper garments he was to some extent master of himself.

Joe McCaskey accepted these attentions without a word of thanks, without a sign of gratitude. He appeared to be numbed, paralyzed, by the nervous shock he had undergone, and yet he was not paralyzed, for his eyes were intensely alive. They were wild, baleful; his roving glance was like poison to the men it fell upon.

"You're due to leave camp," he was told, "and you're going to take the first boat from Dyea. Is there anything you want to say, anything you want to do, before you go?"

"I want something to eat," Joe answered, hoarsely. "I'm hungry." These were the first words he had uttered; they met with astonishment. Nevertheless he was led to the nearest restaurant. Surrounded by a silent, curious group, he crowded over the board counter and wolfed a ravenous meal. When he had finished he rose, turned, and stared questioningly at the circle of hostile faces; his eyes still glittering with that basilisk stare of hatred and defiance. There was something huge, disconcerting about the man. Not once had he appealed for mercy, not once had he complained, not once had he asked about his brother; he showed neither curiosity nor concern over Jim's fate, and now he betrayed the utmost indifference to his own. He merely shifted that venomous stare from one face to another as if indelibly to photograph each and every one of them upon his mind.

But the citizens of Sheep Camp were not done with him yet. His hands were again bound, this time behind him; a blanket roll was roped upon his shoulders, upon his breast was hung a staring placard which read:

"I am a thief! Spit on me and send me along!"

Thus decorated, he met his crowning indignity. Extending from the steps of the restaurant far down the street twin rows of men had formed, and this gauntlet Joe McCaskey was forced to run. He bore this ordeal as he had borne the other. Men jeered at him, they flung handfuls of wet moss and mud at him, they spat upon him, some even struck him, bound as he was.

Sicken at the sight, Pierce Phillips witnessed the final chapter of this tragedy into which the winds of chance had blown him. For one instant only did his eyes meet those of his former tentmate, but during that brief glance the latter made plain his undying hatred. McCaskey's gaze intensified, his upper lip drew back in a grimace similar to that which he had lifted to the sky when agony ran through his veins like fire; he seemed to concentrate the last ounce of his soul's energy in the sending of some wordless message. Hellish fury, a threat too baneful, too ominous, for expression dwelt in that stare; then a splatter of mire struck him in the face and blotted it out.

When the last jeer had died away, when the figure of Joe McCaskey had disappeared into the misty twilight, Phillips drew a deep breath. What a day this had been, what a tumult he had lived through, what an experience he had undergone! This was an adventure! He had lived, he had made an enemy. Life had come his way, and the consciousness of that fact caused him to tingle. This would be something to talk about; what would the folks back home say to this? And the Countess—that wonderful woman of ice and fire! That superwoman who could sway the minds of men, whose wit was quicker than light. Well, she had saved him, saved his good name, if not his neck, and his life was hers. Who was she? What mission brought her here? What hurry crowded on her heels? What idle chance had flung them into each other's arms? Or was it idle chance? Was there such a thing as chance, after all? Were not men's random fortunes all laid out in conformity with some obscure purpose to form a part of some intricate design? Duet he was, dust blown upon the breath of the North, as were these other human atoms which had been borne thither from the farthest corners of the earth; but when that dust had settled would it not arrange itself into patterns mapped out at the hour of birth or long before? Somehow he believed that such would be the case.

As for the Countess, his way was hers her way was his; he could not bear to think of losing her. She was big, she was great, she drew him by the spell of some strange magic. The peppery old man who, with Doret's help, had defied the miner's meeting approached him to inquire: "Say, why didn't Tom Linton come back with you from Linderman?"

"Old Tom?"

"Sure! Old Tom Linton. We're pardners. I'm Jerry Quirk."

"He was tired out."

"Tired!" Mr. Quirk snorted derisively. "What tired him? He can't tote enough grub to satisfy his own hunger. Me, I'm double-trip-pin—relaying our stuff to the Summit and breakin' my back at it. I can't make him understand we'd ought to keep the outfit together; he's got it scattered like a mad woman's hair. But Old Tom's in the sere and yellow leaf; he's onery, like all old men. I try to humor him, but—there's a limit." The speaker looked Pierce over shrewdly. "You said you was packin' for wages. Well, old Tom ain't any help to me. You look strong. Mebbe I could hire you."

Phillips shook his head. "I don't want work just now," said he. "I'm going to Dyea in the morning."

Jim McCaskey was buried where he had fallen, and there beside the trail, so that all who passed might read and ponder, the men of Sheep Camp raised a board with this inscription:

"Here lies the body of a thief."

NEW ULM MAN HEADS CATHOLIC SOCIETIES OF STATE

St. Paul, Sept. 30.—(UP)—WILLIAM E. BERNER, New Ulm, late yesterday was elected president of the state federation of Catholic societies at the annual conference here.

A resolution favoring revision of the Volstead act and condemning evils brought about by the prohibition law was adopted.

Rev. John Selskar, St. Paul seminary, principal speaker, declared evolution is still a theory and not a proved fact.

"THE THREE MUSKETEERS" IN "THE IRON HORSE" A WILLIAM FOX SPECIAL

"The Iron Horse" True to History of Early West

Numerous histories of the building of the new west, telling of the first continental railroad, record colorful incidents of that achievement which have been faithfully re-enacted for the screen in the William Fox special "The Iron Horse." As an instance, there is a detailed record in "New Colorado," by Hayes, of an attempt by Indians to lasso a train. The incident is shown in the picture as clearly as it occurred.

"The Iron Horse" comes to the New Park theatre Friday for an engagement of three days matinee and night.

Film Makes Plea For Modern Youth

When is a flapper not a flapper?

This is not one of the trick questions so popular in the humorous magazines, but a serious inquiry regarding present day young womanhood. And, as such, it is one of the major questions presented and answered by "The House of Youth," the picture running at the Lyceum theatre tonight only in conjunction with "Country Store Night," where every one interested in the modern young woman is finding a new interest in the flapper question.

It shows that the flapper is not a woman apart, but that she is for the time being a woman passing through a peculiar stage of her life—the stage in which she craves excitement beyond her power to sustain—then her real womanhood asserts itself through some great emotion which makes her rise above that which she hitherto has been. In "The House of Youth" it is a great injustice, the loss of her good reputation which bring Corinna Endicott "out of it"—but the picture shows that any equally powerful cause would accomplish the same end.

ST. CLOUD WOMAN'S SKULL FRACTURED

St. Cloud, Sept. 30.—(UP)—Mrs. Henry Weis, 62, is suffering injuries which may prove fatal in a local hospital today as result of an automobile accident last night. She was run down by Herbert Mockenchupe. Her skull was fractured.

The accident was the third suffered by members of her family recently. Stanley, a son, was seriously hurt a short time ago and Mrs. Simon Weis, a daughter-in-law, is recovering from a fractured skull from another accident.

FRANK A. WHITTIER, PAROLE AGENT AT STILLWATER, DIED

Stillwater, Minn., Sept. 30.—(UP)—Frank A. Whittier, parole agent for the state penitentiary here, died late last night of heart disease. He was 65 years old.

Whittier was recognized nationally as an authority in the field of criminal psychology. He had been active as a Minnesota prison official for more than 30 years, during which time he championed numerous jail reform measures.

While parole agent for the state, Whittier wrote numerous widely known pamphlets on criminology, dealing particularly with the problems of parole.

GAS TAX LAW RECEIPTS DECLINE IN WISCONSIN

Madison, Wis., Sept. 30.—(UP)—A slight decrease in receipts for the month of August from Wisconsin's newly enacted gasoline tax law is given in the monthly report submitted by state treasurer Sol Levitan. Receipts for August are given as $551,250 as against receipts of $562,239.77 for the month of July, which was the peak month of the five during which the law has been in operation.

GEN. ATTERBURY NOW HEADS THE PENNSYLVANIA R. R.

Philadelphia, Sept. 30.—(UP)—General W. W. Atterbury today became president of the Pennsylvania railroad. He started his career 39 years ago as an apprentice in the company's car shops.

At a meeting of the board of directors here, General Atterbury was elected to succeed Samuel Rea, whose retirement under the railroad's ironclad pension rule, takes place tonight. General Atterbury has served as vice president of the road for 16 years and prior to that was general manager.

IF YOU COULD SEE THE HEAT IN COAL

You would realize at once that a load of STANDARD COAL contains a full measure of heat and a load of ordinary unprepared coal only a short measure of heat.

The difference in heat value is due to the low ash content of STANDARD COAL and to the careful, systematic way in which STANDARD COAL is mined and cleaned, so that no visible, non-combustible impurities and wastes are shipped.

Freight charges are the same on STANDARD COAL as on the ordinary, unprepared, dirty coal. Delivered heat value alone counts. For a full measure of heat, use STANDARD COAL.

THE STORY THUS FAR

Pierce Phillips, at Sheep Camp, in the Yukon country, where he had gone to join the mad rush of miners in quest of gold, has been wrongly accused of stealing provisions. At a mob meeting of miners he is brought to trial along with Jim and Joe McCaskey. The McCaskey brothers shift the guilt to him and despite all that his friends, Poleon Doret and Countess Courteau, can do the mob is bent on hanging him.

In a fight with Jim McCaskey, who has insulted the Countess with whom Phillips has formed a fond attachment, it is discovered that the McCaskeys are the guilty ones. At the pitch of excitement Jim McCaskey escapes and some one in the mob shoots him dead.

At the first stroke of the descending whip a howl went up—a merciless howl, a howl of fierce exultation. Joe McCaskey rocked forward upon the balls of his feet; his frame was racked by a spasm of agony; he strained at his thighs until his shoulder muscles swelled. The flesh of his back knotted and writhed; livid streaks leaped out upon it, then turned crimson and began to trickle blood.

"One!" roared the mob. The wielder of the scourge swung his weapon again; again the leather strips wrapped around the victim's ribs and laid open their defenseless covering.

"Two!" McCaskey lunged forward, then strained backward; the tent-frame creaked as he pulled at it. His head was drawn far back between his shoulders; his face was convulsed, and his gums were bared in a skyward grin. If he uttered any sound it was lost in the uproar.

"Three!" It was a frightful punishment. The man's flesh was being stripped from his bones.

"Four!"

"Five!"

The count went on monotonously, for the fellow with the whip swung slowly, putting his whole strength behind every blow. When it had climbed to eight the prisoner's body was dripping with blood, his trousers-band was sodden with it. When it had reached ten he hung suspended by his wrists and only a fierce involuntary muscular reaction answered the caress of the nine lashes.

Forty stripes had been voted as the penalty, but Poleon Doret vaulted to the platform, seized the upraised whip, and tore it from the executioner's hand. He turned upon the crowd a countenance white with fury and disgust.

"Enough!" he shouted. "By Gar! You feel him next! If you must whip somebody, whip me; dish teller is mos' dead." He strode to the post and with a slash of his hunting knife cut McCaskey down.

This action was greeted with an angry yell of protest; there was a rush toward the platform, but Poleon was joined by the leader of the posse, who scrambled through the press and ranged himself in opposition to the audience. The old man was likewise satiated with this torture; his face was wet with sweat; beneath his drooping gray mustache his teeth were set.

"Back up, you hyenas!" he cried, shrilly. "The show is over. The man took his medicine and he took it like a man. He's had enough."

"Gimme the whip, I'll finish the job," some one shouted.

The former speaker bent forward, abristle with defiance.

"You try it!" he spat out. "You touch that whip and by God, I'll kill you!" He lent point to this threat by drawing and cocking his six-shooter. "If you men ain't had enough blood for one day, I'll let a little more for you." His words ended in a torrent of profanity.

"Climb aboard!" he shrilled. "Who's got the guts to try?"

Doret spoke to him shortly, "Dese men ain't goin' mak' no trouble, m'sieu." With that he turned his back and, heedless of the clamor, began to minister to the bleeding man. He had provided himself with a bottle of lotion, doubtless some antiseptic snatched from the canvas drug-store down the street, and with this he wet a handkerchief; then he washed McCaskey's lacerated back. A member of the committee joined him in this work of mercy; soon others came to their assistance, and gradually the crowd began breaking up. Some one handed the sufferer a drink of whiskey, which revived him considerably, and by the time he was ready to receive his upper garments he was to some extent master of himself.

Joe McCaskey accepted these attentions without a word of thanks, without a sign of gratitude. He appeared to be numbed, paralyzed, by the nervous shock he had undergone, and yet he was not paralyzed, for his eyes were intensely alive. They were wild, baleful; his roving glance was like poison to the men it fell upon. "You're due to leave camp," he was told, "and you're going to take the first boat from Dyea. Is there anything you want to say, anything you want to do, before you go?"

"I want something to eat," Joe answered, hoarsely. "I'm hungry." These were the first words he had uttered; they met with astonishment. Nevertheless he was led to the nearest restaurant. Surrounded by a silent, curious group, he crowded over the board counter and wolfed a ravenous meal. When he had finished he rose, turned, and stared questioningly at the circle of hostile faces; his eyes still glittering with that basilisk stare of hatred and defiance. There was something huge, disconcerting, about the man. Not once had he appealed for mercy, not once had he complained, not once had he asked about his brother; he showed neither curiosity nor concern over Jim's fate, and now he betrayed the utmost indifference to his own. He merely shifted that venomous stare from one face to another as if indelibly to photograph each and every one of them upon his mind.

But the citizens of Sheep Camp were not done with him yet. His hands were again bound, this time behind him; a blanket roll was roped upon his shoulders, upon his breast was hung a staring placard which read:

"I am a thief! Spit on me and send me along!"

Thus decorated, he met his crowning indignity. Extending from the steps of the restaurant far down the street two rows of men had formed, and this gauntlet Joe McCaskey was forced to run. He bore this ordeal as he had borne the other. Men jeered at him, they flung handfuls of wet moss and mud at him, they spat upon him, some even struck him, bound as he was.

Sickened at the sight, Pierce Phillips witnessed the final chapter of this tragedy into which the winds of chance had blown him. For one instant only did his eyes meet those of his former tentmate, but during that brief glance the latter made plain his undying hatred. McCaskey's gaze intensified, his upper lip drew back in a grimace similar to that which he had lifted to the sky when agony ran through his veins like fire; he seemed to concentrate the last ounce of his soul's energy in the sending of some wordless message.

Hellish fury, a threat too baneful, too ominous, for expression dwelt in that stare; then a splatter of mire struck him in the face and blotted it out.

When the last jeer had died away, when the figure of Joe McCaskey had disappeared into the misty twilight, Phillips drew a deep breath. What a day this had been, what a tumult he had lived through, what an experience he had undergone! This was an adventure! He had lived, he had made an enemy. Life had come his way, and the consciousness of that fact caused him to tingle. This would be something to talk about; what would the folks back home say to this? And the Countess—that wonderful woman of ice and fire! That superwoman who could sway the minds of men, whose wit was quicker than light. Well, she had saved him, saved his good name. If not his neck, and his life was hers. Who was she? What mission brought her here? What hurry crowded on her heels? What idle chance had flung them into each other's arms? Or was it idle chance? Was there such a thing as chance, after all? Were not men's random fortunes all laid out in conformity with some obscure purpose to form a part of some intricate design? Dore he was, dust blown upon the breath of the North, as were these other human atoms which had been borne thither from the farthest corners of the earth; but when that dust had settled would it not arrange itself into patterns mapped out at the hour of birth or long before? Somehow he believed that such would be the case.

As for the Countess, his way was hers her way was his; he could not bear to think of losing her. She was big, she was great, she drew him by the spell of some strange magic.

The peppery old man who, with Doret's help, had defied the miner's meeting approached him to inquire: "Say, why didn't Tom Linton come back with you from Linderman?"

"Old Tom?"

"Sure! Old Tom Linton. We're partners. I'm Jerry Quirk."

"He was tired out."

"Tired!" Mr. Quirk snorted derisively. "What tired him? He can't tote enough grub to satisfy his own hunger. Me, I'm double-trip-pin—relaying our stuff to the Summit and breakin' my back at it. I can't make him understand we'd ought to keep the outfit together; he's got it scattered like a mad woman's hair. But Old Tom's in the sere and yellow leaf; he's onery, like all old men. I try to humor him, but—there's a limit." The speaker looked Pierce over shrewdly. "You said you was packin' for wages. Well, old Tom ain't any help to me. You look strong. Mebbe I could hire you."

Phillips shook his head. "I don't want work just now," said he. "I'm going to Dyea in the morning."

Jim McCaskey was buried where he had fallen, and there beside the trail, so that all who passed might read and ponder, the men of Sheep Camp raised a board with this inscription:

"Here lies the body of a thief."

NEW ULM MAN HEADS CATHOLIC SOCIETIES OF STATE

St. Paul, Sept. 30.—(UP)—William E. Ebnner, New Ulm, late yesterday was elected president of the state federation of Catholic societies at the annual conference here.

A resolution favoring revision of the Volstead act and condemning evils brought about by the prohibition law was adopted.

Rev. John Selskar, St. Paul seminary, principal speaker, declared evolution is still a theory and not a proved fact.

"The Iron Horse" True to History of Early West

Numerous histories of the building of the new west, telling of the first continental railroad, record colorful incidents of that achievement which have been faithfully re-enacted for the screen in the William Fox special "The Iron Horse." As an instance, there is a detailed record in "New Colorado," by Hayes, of an attempt by Indians to lasso a train. The incident is shown in the picture as clearly as it occurred.

"The Iron Horse" comes to the New Park theatre Friday for an engagement of three days matinee and night.

Film Makes Plea For Modern Youth

When is a flapper not a flapper? This is not one of the trick questions so popular in the humorous magazines, but a serious inquiry regarding present day young womanhood. And, as such, it is one of the major questions presented and answered by "The House of Youth," the picture running at the Lyceum theatre tonight only in conjunction with "Country Store Night," where everyone interested in the modern young woman is finding a new interest in the flapper question.

It shows that the flapper is not a woman apart, but that she is for the time being a woman passing through a peculiar stage of her life—the stage in which she craves excitement beyond her power to sustain—then her real womanhood asserts itself through some great emotion which makes her rise above that which she hitherto has been. In "The House of Youth" it is a great injustice, the loss of her good reputation which brings Corinna Endicott "out of it"—but the picture shows that any equally powerful cause would accomplish the same end.

FRANK A. WHITTIER, PAROLE AGENT AT STILLWATER, DIED

Stillwater, Minn., Sept. 30.—(UP)—Frank A. Whittier, parole agent for the state penitentiary here, died late last night of heart disease. He was 65 years old.

Whittier was recognized nationally as an authority in the field of criminal psychology. He had been active as a Minnesota prison official for more than 30 years, during which time he championed numerous jail reform measures.

While parole agent for the state, Whittier wrote numerous widely known pamphlets on criminology, dealing particularly with the problems of parole.

GAS TAX LAW RECEIPTS DECLINE IN WISCONSIN

Madison, Wis., Sept. 30.—(UP)—A slight decrease in receipts for the month of August from Wisconsin's newly enacted gasoline tax law is given in the monthly report submitted by state treasurer Sol Levittan. Receipts for August are given as $551,250 as against receipts of $562,239.77 for the month of July, which was the peak month of the five during which the law has been in operation.

GEN. ATTERBURY NOW HEADS THE PENNSYLVANIA R. R.

Philadelphia, Sept. 30.—(UP)—General W. W. Atterbury today became president of the Pennsylvania railroad. He started his career 39 years ago as an apprentice in the company's car shops.

At a meeting of the board of directors here, General Atterbury was elected to succeed Samuel Rea, whose retirement under the railroad's ironclad pension rule, takes place tonight.

General Atterbury has served as vice president of the road for 16 years and prior to that was general manager.

IF YOU COULD SEE THE HEAT IN COAL

You would realize at once that a load of STANDARD COAL contains a full measure of heat and a load of ordinary unprepared coal only a short measure of heat.

The difference in heat value is due to the low ash content of STANDARD COAL and to the careful, systematic way in which STANDARD COAL is mined and cleaned, so that no visible, non-combustible impurities and wastes are shipped.

Freight charges are the same on STANDARD COAL as on the ordinary, unprepared, dirty coal. Delivered heat value alone counts. For a full measure of heat, use STANDARD COAL.

WILLS WINS AMBITION TO FIGHT DEMPSEY

ARTICLES FOR THE MATCH ARE MOST CAREFULLY FRAMED

SIGNED LAST NIGHT AT NILES, MICH., BATTLE TO BE IN SEPTEMBER, 1926

2 GIANTS OF THE RING ARE TO FIGHT ON A PERCENTAGE BASIS

By EDWARD C. DERR
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Chicago, Sept. 30.—Harry Wills, the dusky heavyweight boxer and most insistent championship contender, has won his ambition in a match with Jack Dempsey.

Articles for the match, carefully framed to avoid all legal complications, were signed last night at Niles, Mich. They call for a meeting between Dempsey and Wills somewhere in the United States "sometime in September, 1926."

Floyd Fitzsimmons is the promoter. The two giants of the ring will fight on a percentage basis, the figures to be announced later. Dempsey has posted a forfeit of $100,000. Wills bound himself by $50,000 and Fitzsimmons put up $200,000 to assure his end of the arrangements. The $350,000 has been deposited in a South Bend, Ind., bank, according to Fitzsimmons.

Signing of the articles came as the climax of many weeks of negotiating. Fitzsimmons has been trying to get the big boys together for a long time and has had them together in South Bend for three days.

Because of a technicality in Indiana's prizefight law, Dempsey and his secretary, Rob Roy Benton; Wills and his manager, Paddy Mullins, and Fitzsimmons and his associates made a hurried trip in automobiles to Niles, Mich. There in the private office of Dr. Frederick Bonine, the formal papers were laid before Dempsey and Wills and as the flashlights of newspaper cameras boomed, the two fighters affixed their signatures to the agreement. Fitzsimmons then added his name and L. S. Goodsell signed as notary public.

Date of the match was postponed one year because of Dempsey's contract with Jack Kearns, which expires August 3, 1926. If Kearns goes to court with the contention that Dempsey had no authority to sign for the Wills match without his permission, the trio that signed last night will scrap the present document and sign new papers after August 3.

Fitzsimmons and his financial backers will pick the location for the fight. They would like to hold it within commuting distance at least of Chicago, but as Illinois law prohibits citizens of another state from staging a boxing show, the promoters might sell their contract outright to another group of Chicago promoters, but it is believed that they will hang on to their agreement and attempt to hold the fight in Indiana.

Selection of a referee almost disrupted the negotiations. Dempsey contending that as defending champion he should be allowed to select the third man in the ring. Wills objected to this and they compromised by an agreement that each would select three names and they would then try to settle on one, the promoters to clinch the matter if they do not agree.

TEX RICKARD MAY GUM UP THE FIGHT WITH SUIT

SAYS HE HAS DEMPSEY'S AGREEMENT TO FIGHT FOR HIM

ALSO AN AGREEMENT THAT JACK KEARNS SIGNED FOR DEMPSEY

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Sept. 30.—Legal action will be started against Jack Dempsey by Tex Rickard, if the heavyweight champion attempts to fight Harry Wills for any other promoter.

Rickard is awaiting the return from the west of Paddy Mullins, Wills' manager, to get the background of the signing of articles yesterday for a Dempsey-Wills fight next September.

"I have a two way agreement with Dempsey to fight for me," Rickard said. "I have Dempsey's verbal promise and several telegrams and I have an agreement that Jack Kearns signed as his manager."

"Dempsey cannot double cross me and I'm surprised that he is trying to pull off anything like that. I put him in the way of making all the big money he ever made in the ring, but I guess that no one will be surprised at anything that happens in this fight business," said Rickard.

Rickard said he had advanced a considerable sum as a binder when Kearns signed the agreement and that he felt sure he could recover that amount in court and an additional sum representing the profit he could have made on the fight.

Dempsey may also be brought into court by Jack Kearns if his former manager finds that Floyd Fitzsimmons, western syndicate, cannot make as much money for him as Rickard could.

Rickard and Kearns were to talk over the case today but they said they could do nothing until they were sure that there was not some kind of a publicity stunt behind the signing of the articles.

New York failed to register any excitement. Boxing men and the movie bunch that it may be a stunt to boom one of Dempsey's pictures which have been in the vault since they were made.

It was the general opinion here that the fight could not be staged in Indiana as it would take a very liberal interpretation of the law to convince the authorities that such a match was a boxing exhibition.

PROFESSIONAL FOOTBALL PLANS IN THE EAST

DIRECTORS OF BIG TEN CONFERENCE TO PROBE REPORT RED GRANGE WAS APPROACHED

PROS ARE PROHIBITED DICKERING WITH COLLEGE PLAYERS UNTIL SCHOOL DAYS OVER

Chicago, Sept. 30.—(UP)—Directors of the western football conference, comprising the Big Ten, announced today they would investigate reports that Harold "Red" Grange had been approached with a view to playing professional football in the east following the finish of the present collegiate season.

This is Grange's last season as a football hero at the University of Illinois. He is captain of his team. Although admitting that the matter of professional football had been mentioned to him, he denied that any definite offer was made. An agreement between the western conference and the National Professional Football league prohibits the pros from dickering with college players until their collegiate careers are ended.

According to reports Grange is wanted by an eastern syndicate including Colonel Jacob Ruppert of the New York Yankees and Charles Stoneham of the Giants, to play in a proposed new football league.

Grange has confessed a desire to play professional football after leaving college "if the financial reward is sufficient," but he declared in an interview that he wanted to win the college letter in baseball next spring and probably would spurn professional offers until after next June.

"BREAKS" MAY AGAIN DECIDE WORLD SERIES: LUCKY BOUND WON FOR SENATORS LAST YEAR

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Sept. 30.—Pitching, batting, fielding and base running will all have their important parts to play in the world's series that is to start soon between the champion Washington Senators and the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The "breaks," however, will also be an important factor and they can't be figured in doping the chances of the two pennant winning teams to win the series. No one can tell whether luck will side with the Senators or the Pirates or will remain neutral and divide its smiles and its frowns.

It is perhaps a fact that in many years, luck did not play as conspicuous part in deciding the championship as it did last year in aiding the Senators to win the deciding game from the Giants.

There were three distinct breaks in that game that turned the tide in favor of the Senators and gave them the rich rewards of the difference between the winners and the losers' share of the receipts.

In the ninth inning the Senators tied the score when a ball took a freak bound and jumped over Freddy Lindstrom's head. It was tagged a sure out. Lindstrom was all set to field the ball on an easy bound and make the throw to first when it hit a pebble, a hole or something directly in front of him and bounded high over his head.

Such breaks are not unusual but they are almost miraculous when they happen twice under almost identical circumstances at the most critical part of the game.

In the twelfth inning the same break occurred and the Senators won the ball game. Again an easy chance went down to Lindstrom. The play couldn't have been duplicated any more perfectly if it had been removed from the ninth inning and replayed. The ball took another freakish bound over the little third baseman's head and the winning run was over.

In that same twelfth inning there was another intervention of luck that put the winning run on the bases. Muddy Ruel was at the bat and he knocked a high foul behind and to the left of the plate. Hank Gowdy, as dependable a catcher as any manager could desire, tore off his mask and tossed it out of his path. The mask bounded in front of him and Gowdy stepped into it. He tripped and stumbled and lost the catch. Ruel then doubled and scored the winning run on the third big break of the game.

You can go to a thousand big league ball games and you will never see an experienced catcher like Gowdy step into a mask and lose a catch. Even a fiction writer would hesitate to base the turning point of a diamond drama on such a freak occurrence. But it happened nevertheless.

PLAYS AT LITTLE FALLS ON NEXT SATURDAY, OCTOBER 3

The Brainerd high school football team plays at Little Falls on next Saturday, October 3rd, instead of at home, as the schedule was first announced. Several changes in the football schedule have been made recently, and the corrected dates of games are as follows:

Oct. 3rd—Little Falls, there.
Oct. 10th—Aitkin at Brainerd.
Oct. 17th—Crosby at Brainerd.
Oct. 23rd—Crosby, there.
Oct. 31st—Little Falls at Brainerd.

Nov. 7th—Staples at Brainerd.
Nov. 14th—Aitkin, there.
On Saturday, October 24th, the University of Minnesota plays Notre Dame at Minneapolis, and the Brainerd team is planning to go there in a body with Coach Beresford to witness the game, which accounts for the game with Crosby here on Friday, October 23rd, instead of on Saturday as all other games are scheduled.

The local team is working hard for Saturday's tilt with Little Falls. On Tuesday evening the team had a fine scrimmage with an eleven from the Y. M. C. A., working out some of its weaker points, and it hopes to be in much better shape for Saturday's battle than for last week's game with Staples.

There were six new players on the Brainerd team in the last game, and the brunt of the playing fell upon the five older men, which accounts in some measure for the defeat. Crosby beat Little Falls last Saturday by a score of 7 to 0, and it is reported that the down-river eleven is situated similarly to Brainerd, so far as new players is concerned, so that the two teams will be quite evenly matched on Saturday.

The Brainerd camp was threatened with ineligibility on the part of a number of her players, but this serious condition is remedied so far as the Little Falls game is concerned. However, it will take hard work on the part of several of the team during the rest of the season.

School superintendents from this district met in Brainerd this week, and completed the high school basketball schedule for the coming season, which opens on December 11th, when Brainerd plays Wadena there. Superintendents in attendance at the recent meeting included Prof. Atwood, of Staples, F. E. Lurton, of Aitkin, Perkins, of Crosby, Shaw, of Pine River, and Burnquist of Little Falls. The only school not represented was Wadena.

Superintendent W. C. Cobb, of Brainerd was selected as chairman of the district committee of Minnesota high school athletic association, of the eleventh athletic district. This position carries with it membership in the directorate of the Brainerd region. There are eight regions in the state, with four districts in the region in which this city is located. Mr. Atwood, of Staples was made secretary of the district committee and Mr. Burnquist, of Little Falls forms the third member of the committee.

The schedule of basketball games, which was made up by casting lots, is as follows, so far as Brainerd is concerned:

Dec. 11th—Brainerd at Wadena.
Dec. 18th—Pine River at Brainerd.
Jan. 8th—Brainerd at Little Falls.
Jan. 15th—Crosby at Brainerd.
Jan. 22nd—Brainerd at Staples.
Jan. 29th—Little Falls at Brainerd.
Feb. 5th—Brainerd at Pine River.
Feb. 12th—Open date.
Feb. 19th—Brainerd at Crosby.
Feb. 26th—Aitkin at Brainerd.

This schedule provides for two games each with each high school except Staples.

The Brainerd meeting of superintendents favor St. Cloud as the regional center, which was at Alexandria last year. All tournament arrangements were left in the hands of the committee. Each school is required to put up $25 as a guarantee before it can play any games in the association.

The Brainerd camp was threatened with ineligibility on the part of a number of her players, but this serious condition is remedied so far as the Little Falls game is concerned. However, it will take hard work on the part of several of the team during the rest of the season.

School superintendents from this district met in Brainerd this week, and completed the high school basketball schedule for the coming season, which opens on December 11th, when Brainerd plays Wadena there. Superintendents in attendance at the recent meeting included Prof. Atwood, of Staples, F. E. Lurton, of Aitkin, Perkins, of Crosby, Shaw, of Pine River, and Burnquist of Little Falls. The only school not represented was Wadena.

Superintendent W. C. Cobb, of Brainerd was selected as chairman of the district committee of Minnesota high school athletic association, of the eleventh athletic district. This position carries with it membership in the directorate of the Brainerd region. There are eight regions in the state, with four districts in the region in which this city is located. Mr. Atwood, of Staples was made secretary of the district committee and Mr. Burnquist, of Little Falls forms the third member of the committee.

The schedule of basketball games, which was made up by casting lots, is as follows, so far as Brainerd is concerned:

Dec. 11th—Brainerd at Wadena.
Dec. 18th—Pine River at Brainerd.
Jan. 8th—Brainerd at Little Falls.
Jan. 15th—Crosby at Brainerd.
Jan. 22nd—Brainerd at Staples.
Jan. 29th—Little Falls at Brainerd.
Feb. 5th—Brainerd at Pine River.
Feb. 12th—Open date.
Feb. 19th—Brainerd at Crosby.
Feb. 26th—Aitkin at Brainerd.

This schedule provides for two games each with each high school except Staples.

The Brainerd meeting of superintendents favor St. Cloud as the regional center, which was at Alexandria last year. All tournament arrangements were left in the hands of the committee. Each school is required to put up $25 as a guarantee before it can play any games in the association.

WILLS WINS AMBITION TO FIGHT DEMPSEY

ARTICLES FOR THE MATCH ARE MOST CAREFULLY FRAMED

SIGNED LAST NIGHT AT NILES, MICH., BATTLE TO BE IN SEPTEMBER, 1926

2 GIANTS OF THE RING ARE TO FIGHT ON A PERCENTAGE BASIS

By EDWARD C. DERR
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Chicago, Sept. 30.—Harry Wills, the dusky heavyweight boxer and most insistent championship contender, has won his ambition in a match with Jack Dempsey.

Articles for the match, carefully framed to avoid all legal complications, were signed last night at Niles, Mich. They call for a meeting between Dempsey and Wills somewhere in the United States "sometime in September, 1926."

Floyd Fitzsimmons is the promoter. The two giants of the ring will fight on a percentage basis, the figures to be announced later. Dempsey has posted a forfeit of $100,000. Wills bound himself by $50,000 and Fitzsimmons put up $200,000 to assure his end of the arrangements. The $350,000 has been deposited in a South Bend, Ind., bank, according to Fitzsimmons.

Signing of the articles came as the climax of many weeks of negotiating. Fitzsimmons has been trying to get the big boys together for a long time and has had them together in South Bend for three days.

Because of a technicality in Indiana's prizefight law, Dempsey and his secretary, Rob Roy Benton; Wills and his manager, Paddy Mullins, and Fitzsimmons and his associates made a hurried trip in automobiles to Niles, Mich. There in the private office of Dr. Frederick Bonine, the formal papers were laid before Dempsey and Wills and as the flashlights of newspaper cameras boomed, the two fighters affixed their signatures to the agreement. Fitzsimmons then added his name and L. S. Goodsell signed as notary public.

Date of the match was postponed one year because of Dempsey's contract with Jack Kearns, which expires August 3, 1926. If Kearns goes to court with the contention that Dempsey had no authority to sign for the Wills match without his permission, the trio that signed last night will scrap the present document and sign new papers after August 3.

Fitzsimmons and his financial backers will pick the location for the fight. They would like to hold it within commuting distance at least of Chicago, but as Illinois law prohibits citizens of another state from staging a boxing show, the promoters might sell their contract outright to another group of Chicago promoters, but it is believed that they will hang on to their agreement and attempt to hold the fight in Indiana.

Selection of a referee almost disrupted the negotiations. Dempsey contending that as defending champion he should be allowed to select the third man in the ring. Wills objected to this and they compromised by an agreement that each would select three names and they would then try to settle on one, the promoters to clinch the matter if they do not agree.

TEX RICKARD MAY GUM UP THE FIGHT WITH SUIT

SAYS HE HAS DEMPSEY'S AGREEMENT TO FIGHT FOR HIM

ALSO AN AGREEMENT THAT JACK KEARNS SIGNED FOR DEMPSEY

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Sept. 30.—Legal action will be started against Jack Dempsey by Tex Rickard, if the heavyweight champion attempts to fight Harry Wills for any other promoter.

Rickard is awaiting the return from the west of Paddy Mullins, Wills' manager, to get the background of the signing of articles yesterday for a Dempsey-Wills fight next September.

"I have a two way agreement with Dempsey to fight for me," Rickard said. "I have Dempsey's verbal promise and several telegrams and I have an agreement that Jack Kearns signed as his manager."

"Dempsey cannot double cross me and I'm surprised that he is trying to pull off anything like that. I put him in the way of making all the big money he ever made in the ring, but I guess that no one will be surprised at anything that happens in this fight business," said Rickard.

Rickard said he had advanced a considerable sum as a binder when Kearns signed the agreement and that he felt sure he could recover that amount in court and an additional sum representing the profit he could have made on the fight.

Dempsey may also be brought into court by Jack Kearns if his former manager finds that Floyd Fitzsimmons, western syndicate, cannot make as much money for him as Rickard could.

Rickard and Kearns were to talk over the case today but they said they could do nothing until they were sure that there was not some kind of a publicity stunt behind the signing of the articles.

New York failed to register any excitement. Boxing men and the movie bunch that it may be a stunt to boom one of Dempsey's pictures which have been in the vault since they were made.

It was the general opinion here that the fight could not be staged in Indiana as it would take a very liberal interpretation of the law to convince the authorities that such a match was a boxing exhibition.

PROFESSIONAL FOOTBALL PLANS IN THE EAST

DIRECTORS OF BIG TEN CONFERENCE TO PROBE REPORT RED GRANGE WAS APPROACHED

PROS ARE PROHIBITED DICKERING WITH COLLEGE PLAYERS UNTIL SCHOOL DAYS OVER

Chicago, Sept. 30.—(UP)—Directors of the western football conference, comprising the Big Ten, announced today they would investigate reports that Harold "Red" Grange had been approached with a view to playing professional football in the east following the finish of the present collegiate season.

This is Grange's last season as a football hero at the University of Illinois. He is captain of his team. Although admitting that the matter of professional football had been mentioned to him, he denied that any definite offer was made. An agreement between the western conference and the National Professional Football league prohibits the pros from dickering with college players until their collegiate careers are ended.

According to reports Grange is wanted by an eastern syndicate including Colonel Jacob Ruppert of the New York Yankees and Charles Stoneham of the Giants, to play in a proposed new football league.

Grange has confessed a desire to play professional football after leaving college "if the financial reward is sufficient," but he declared in an interview that he wanted to win the college letter in baseball next spring and probably would spurn professional offers until after next June.

"BREAKS" MAY AGAIN DECIDE WORLD SERIES: LUCKY BOUND WON FOR SENATORS LAST YEAR

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Sept. 30.—Pitching, batting, fielding and base running will all have their important parts to play in the world's series that is to start soon between the champion Washington Senators and the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The "breaks," however, will also be an important factor and they can't be figured in doping the chances of the two pennant winning teams to win the series. No one can tell whether luck will side with the Senators or the Pirates or will remain neutral and divide its smiles and its frowns.

It is perhaps a fact that in many years, luck did not play as conspicuous part in deciding the championship as it did last year in aiding the Senators to win the deciding game from the Giants.

There were three distinct breaks in that game that turned the tide in favor of the Senators and gave them the rich rewards of the difference between the winners and the losers' share of the receipts.

In the ninth inning the Senators tied the score when a ball took a freak bound and jumped over Freddy Lindstrom's head. It was tagged a sure out. Lindstrom was all set to field the ball on an easy bound and make the throw to first when it hit a pebble, a hole or something directly in front of him and bounded high over his head.

Such breaks are not unusual but they are almost miraculous when they happen twice under almost identical circumstances at the most critical part of the game.

In the twelfth inning the same break occurred and the Senators won the ball game. Again an easy chance went down to Lindstrom. The play couldn't have been duplicated any more perfectly if it had been removed from the ninth inning and replayed. The ball took another freakish bound over the little third baseman's head and the winning run was over.

In that same twelfth inning there was another intervention of luck that put the winning run on the bases. Muddy Ruel was at the bat and he knocked a high foul behind and to the left of the plate. Hank Gowdy, as dependable a catcher as any manager could desire, tore off his mask and tossed it out of his path. The mask bounded in front of him and Gowdy stepped into it. He tripped and stumbled and lost the catch. Ruel then doubled and scored the winning run on the third big break of the game.

You can go to a thousand big league ball games and you will never see an experienced catcher like Gowdy step into a mask and lose a catch. Even a fiction writer would hesitate to base the turning point of a diamond drama on such a freak occurrence. But it happened nevertheless.

In figuring the chances of the Senators and the Pirates in the coming series, it is fairly safe to base calculations on the batting averages of the teams, the pitching strength against different types of attack, the gameness of players under fire, the differences in managerial strategy, etc. You will be able to get a fair idea of what can be expected, especially if you have had an opportunity to see the two teams in a number of games during the regular season.

But you can't figure the breaks. You can't tell what a young player, like several of the Pittsburgh stars, will do when he sees a two-thousand-dollar ball coming at him. The Washington players can be doped because they have been under fire in one world's series and have survived the strain and tension of two hard pennant races. A good money player in one game will be a good money player in any number of games.

The Pirates never have been renowned as a fighting ball club. On the contrary, they have been accused in the past of lacking gameness, not physically but mentally. There was nothing in the play of the Pirates this season that would indicate any lack of bravery but the National League ball players will tell you in confidence that two of the Pittsburgh players are apt to be nervous in a tight place.

There is a difference between physical and mental bravery and it is the fear that the mental strain on the Pirates will upset their game that will cause many dollars to be wagered on the Senators.

The breaks in this series will be most important—if they are as prominent as they were last year—because such luck tends to discourage a young player who has not been through the fire. Even the experienced Giants in the last series reached the point where they felt—"How can you beat that luck?"—and if they were discouraged the youthful Pirates might blow up completely.

From the early part of the season when the Pirates started their drive for the National League pennant, experienced baseball men thought that the Giants would win out because the Pirates would be certain to blow.

Many of them think that influences more than batted balls and pitched balls will cause them to blow during the series.

There were no other games scheduled.

Watching the Scoreboard

Yesterday's Hero—Ray Pierce, a rookie pitcher, held the Robins safe all the way and the Phillies won, 10 to 4, dropping the Robins into sixth place. It was the third game Pierce won from Brooklyn in four attempts.

Milwaukee—Bobby Barrett, Philadelphia lightweight, defeated Johnny Mendelsohn, Milwaukee, in 10 rounds here last night. Barrett sent Mendelsohn to the canvas for a count of nine in the fifth round. Billy Bartfield out-pointed Alex Hart in 10 rounds.

FIGHTS AND FIGHTERS

PLAYS AT LITTLE FALLS ON NEXT SATURDAY, OCTOBER 3

The Brainerd high school football team plays at Little Falls on next Saturday, October 3rd, instead of at home, as the schedule was first announced. Several changes in the football schedule have been made recently, and the corrected dates of games are as follows:

Oct. 3rd—Little Falls, there.
Oct. 10th—Aitkin at Brainerd.
Oct. 17th—Crosby at Brainerd.
Oct. 23rd—Crosby, there.
Oct. 31st—Little Falls at Brainerd.

Nov. 7th—Staples at Brainerd.
Nov. 14th—Aitkin, there.

On Saturday, October 24th, the University of Minnesota plays Notre Dame at Minneapolis, and the Brainerd team is planning to go there in a body with Coach Beresford to witness the game, which accounts for the game with Crosby here on Friday, October 23rd, instead of on Saturday as all other games are scheduled.

The local team is working hard for Saturday's tilt with Little Falls. On Tuesday evening the team had a fine scrimmage with an eleven from the Y. M. C. A., working out some of its weaker points, and it hopes to be in much better shape for Saturday's battle than for last week's game with Staples.

There were six new players on the Brainerd team in the last game, and the brunt of the playing fell upon the five older men, which accounts in some measure for the defeat. Crosby beat Little Falls last Saturday by a score of 7 to 0, and it is reported that the down-river eleven is situated similarly to Brainerd, so far as new players is concerned, so that the two teams will be quite evenly matched on Saturday.

The Brainerd camp was threatened with ineligibility on the part of a number of her players, but this serious condition is remedied so far as the Little Falls game is concerned. However, it will take hard work on the part of several of the team during the rest of the season.

School superintendents from this district met in Brainerd this week, and completed the high school basketball schedule for the coming season, which opens on December 11th, when Brainerd plays Wadena there. Superintendents in attendance at the recent meeting included Prof. Atwood, of Staples, F. E. Lurton, of Aitkin, Perkins, of Crosby, Shaw, of Pine River, and Burnquist of Little Falls. The only school not represented was Wadena.

Superintendent W. C. Cobb, of Brainerd was selected as chairman of the district committee of Minnesota high school athletic association, of the eleventh athletic district. Dec. 18th—Pine River at Brainerd.
Jan. 8th—Brainerd at Little Falls.
Jan. 15th—Crosby at Brainerd.
Jan. 22nd—Brainerd at Staples.
Jan. 29th—Little Falls at Brainerd.
Feb. 5th—Brainerd at Pine River.
Feb. 12th—Open date.
Feb. 19th—Brainerd at Crosby.
Feb. 26th—Aitkin at Brainerd.
This schedule provides for two games each with each high school except Staples.
The Brainerd meeting of superintendents favor St. Cloud as the regional center, which was at Alexandria last year. All tournament arrangements were left in the hands of the committee. Each school is required to put up $25 as a guarantee before it can play any games in the association.

INSPECT STATE LOANS IN COUNTY

Ole O. Sagen, Chairman Rural Credits Bureau, Makes Personal Inspection

PLEASED WITH FARM PROGRESS
Chairman Sagen Accompanied by Assistant Attorney General Gullikson

Ole O. Sagen, chairman of the rural credits bureau, and Ludwig Gullikson, assistant attorney general and a member of the board, spent Tuesday in Brainerd and vicinity, making a personal inspection of loans in Crow Wing county.

Chairman Sagen expressed himself as surprised and very well pleased at the appearance of the farms and the development of the county's agricultural resources which has taken place in the past year or two.

It is to the credit of Crow Wing county farmers that this is the only county in the northern section of the state with no delinquents in its rural credits borrowers, a condition for which residents of the county can take a just pride, and which speaks well for the farmers in this locality.

Messrs. Sagen and Gullikson went from Brainerd to Detroit, on a similar mission of inspection.

D. D. Schrader, appraiser for the rural credits board, today received some 40 applications for appraisal of lands in his district. This makes the total of applications since August 15th, when the board started sending them out, a few more than 100.

"It looks as if the state is on the job to assist the farmer in obtaining a lower interest rate," commented Mr. Schrader.

GOSPEL MEETINGS

Success Crowns Efforts of Evangelist Eliason And Rev. H. H. Ness

Evangelist Eliason, together with Rev. H. H. Ness, are holding very successful gospel meetings every night at the Full Gospel Assembly. Large crowds are in attendance each evening and many are being converted.

Splendid songs and other musical numbers are featured for an hour at the beginning of each meeting, and are proving to be an important part of the services.

Those who attend seem very much interested in the old time gospel message. Maurice H. Ness, a brother of Rev. Ness, who also is a singer and accomplished performer on the banjo, came to the city today from Minneapolis to assist in the meetings. Other singers and players are also expected.

Miss Mary Chase, recently from California, will speak on Friday evening, her subject being, "What The World Needs Today." Everyone is invited to attend the Full Gospel service, which are held each evening at 8 o'clock.

HARD COURSE OF STUDY

Donald McKay, Son of C. D. McKay, is Student at U. S. Coast Guard Academy

Donald McKay, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. McKay, is entering upon his second year at the U. S. Coast Guard Academy, New London, Conn., after recently completing a cruise in European waters.

Donald's course of study for this year is a very hard one, as is shown by the schedule of recitations which he has sent to his parents, and which are as follows, given for each day of the week:

Mondays—English, mechanics, chemistry, drawing, drills.

Tuesdays—Electricity, calculus, geometry, drawing, drills.

Wednesdays—Geometry, mechanics, navigation, electrical laboratory, drills.

Thursdays—Electricity, calculus, chemistry, physical culture.

Fridays—Shop work, navigation, chemistry, drills.

Saturdays—English, mechanics, geometry.

There are 61 students in the academy, divided into first, second and third class. In the first class there are 7 line students and 4 engineers; in the second class there are 7 line men and 16 engineers, and in the third class there are 16 line men and 11 engineers.

The annual sale and supper of Zion Lutheran church, corner Main and Broadway, will take place on Friday, November 13th. Please note the change of date.

MRS. L. L. RANTA DIED

Was Wife of Rev. Vilho Ranta, Pastor of Finnish Lutheran Church

Mrs. Laina L. Ranta, wife of Rev. Vilho Ranta, pastor of the Finnish Lutheran church, passed away about 9 o'clock Tuesday evening at a local hospital, death being caused by complications following childbirth.

Mrs. Ranta was a very accomplished woman, gifted with much musical talent, and a linguist of no mean ability, having mastered a number of languages. She is a college graduate and a close student.

The deceased is survived by her husband and a daughter four years old.

Funeral arrangements have not as yet been completed, but it is expected that the remains will be taken to Ashtabula Harbor, Ohio, her old home, for burial.

INSPECT STATE LOANS IN COUNTY

Ole O. Sagen, Chairman Rural Credits Bureau, Makes Personal Inspection

PLEASED WITH FARM PROGRESS

Chairman Sagen Accompanied by Assistant Attorney General Gullikson

Ole O. Sagen, chairman of the rural credits bureau, and Ludwig Gullikson, assistant attorney general and a member of the board, spent Tuesday in Brainerd and vicinity, making a personal inspection of loans in Crow Wing county.

Chairman Sagen expressed himself as surprised and very well pleased at the appearance of the farms and the development of the county's agricultural resources which has taken place in the past year or two.

It is to the credit of Crow Wing county farmers that this is the only county in the northern section of the state with no delinquents in its rural credits borrowers, a condition for which residents of the county can take a just pride, and which speaks well for the farmers in this locality.

Messrs. Sagen and Gullikson went from Brainerd to Detroit, on a similar mission of inspection.

D. D. Schrader, appraiser for the rural credits board, today received some 40 applications for appraisal of lands in his district. This makes the total of applications since August 15th, when the board started sending them out, a few more than 100.

"It looks as if the state is on the job to assist the farmer in obtaining a lower interest rate," commented Mr. Schrader.

GOSPEL MEETINGS

Success Crowns Efforts of Evangelist Eliason And Rev. H. H. Ness

Evangelist Eliason, together with Rev. H. H. Ness, are holding very successful gospel meetings every night at the Full Gospel Assembly. Large crowds are in attendance each evening and many are being converted.

Splendid songs and other musical numbers are featured for an hour at the beginning of each meeting, and are proving to be an important part of the services.

Those who attend seem very much interested in the old time gospel message. Maurice H. Ness, a brother of Rev. Ness, who also is a singer and accomplished performer on the banjo, came to the city today from Minneapolis to assist in the meetings. Other singers and players are also expected.

Miss Mary Chase, recently from California, will speak on Friday evening, her subject being, "What The World Needs Today." Everyone is invited to attend the Full Gospel service, which are held each evening at 8 o'clock.

HARD COURSE OF STUDY

Donald McKay, Son of C. D. McKay, Is Student at U. S. Coast Guard Academy

Donald McKay, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. McKay, is entering upon his second year at the U. S. Coast Guard Academy, New London, Conn., after recently completing a cruise in European waters.

Donald's course of study for this year is a very hard one, as is shown by the schedule of recitations which he has sent to his parents, and which are as follows, given for each day of the week:

Mondays — English, mechanics, chemistry, drawing, drills.

Tuesdays — Electricity, calculus, geometry, drawing, drills.

Wednesdays — Geometry, mechanics, navigation, electrical laboratory, drills.

Thursdays — Electricity, calculus, chemistry, physical culture.

Fridays — Shop work, navigation, chemistry, drills.

Saturdays — English, mechanics, geometry.

There are 61 students in the academy, divided into first, second and third class. In the first class there are 7 line students and 4 engineers; in the second class there are 7 line men and 16 engineers, and in the third class there are 16 line men and 11 engineers.

BETRAYAL OF FATIGUE BEAT BOROTRA

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Sept. 30.—Jean Borotra, the young French tennis star, would have added a victory over Bill Tilden to his distinguished court record in the recent Davis Cup challenge round if he had been able to disguise his feelings. Borotra had carried Tilden to four sets under a broiling sun and was carrying the attack to the champion in the fifth set when he began to weaken. Instead of keeping a pose to mislead his opponent, the Frenchman played right into Tilden's hand when he gave the signal of distress by pulling at his side, shaking his head as if in despair and finally taking a chair while they were changing court.

Tilden was just as tired as Borotra but he was too smart to expose his real condition and when he saw how badly the Frenchman was going he speeded up his game and fairly knocked him to the turf.

It is this ability to hide feeling and keep up a brave front that distinguishes the great from the near great. In no sport is this more true than in boxing.

Benny Leonard saved his lightweight championship once when Lew Tindler had him going by keeping a straight face and talking Tindler into the belief that he was not hurt.

Harry Greb always lets an opponent know when he is hurt in a most unusual and disconcerting way. When he is stung he tears in like a wild cat and makes it so interesting for his opponent that he can't follow the opening. "You can always tell when Greb is hurt," Tom Gibbons said once. "You know he's hurt, but you can't do anything about it. He comes back so fast and so wild that you can't get a good shot at him."

All of the real great fighters are "dead pans" in the ring. Dempsey wears the same scowl from the first to the last bell. He was in danger of a knockout in his last fight with the late Bill Brennan, but Brennan didn't know it and he didn't follow his advantage.

Some fighters go to the opposite extreme to disguise their feeling. They go to the point of folly to show their opponent that they are not hurt after they have taken a good smack.

Joe Tipplitz, the Philadelphia lightweight, suffered his first knockout recently when he went to the extreme of exposing his chin to show Jack Zivic that he was not hurt.

Zivic had stung him several times and the crowd was shouting for a knockout. Tipplitz came out of a clinch, dropped his arms and stuck out his chin. Zivic missed him with a right hook. Tipplitz gave him the laugh and stuck out his jaw. Zivic landed with a left hook the second time and knocked Tipplitz cold.

Other fighters like Leach Cross and the late Pepper Martin used a different kind of ring generalship. They tried to coax their opponent in by weaving around the ring, acting as if they were on the point of a knockout. They followed this strategy so much that opponents always thought they were stalling and they never knew in what real condition they were.

Borotra's sign of distress in the Tilden match was not an indication of a lack of gameness. It marked simply the difference in temperament between a Frenchman and an American. He was at the end of his string and he couldn't help but show it because he didn't see the strategy in hiding his feelings.

Neither did he do it to play for sympathy from the gallery or to alibi an impending defeat. He is too good a sportsman for that.

The French temperament was shown when Mlle. Lenglen defaulted to Mrs. Molla Mallory when she was losing a match at Forest Hills several years ago. It would have been more gracious for the French girl to have continued to the end of the set, but she couldn't see the necessity of that because they do not believe in killing themselves in Europe.

FRENCH DEBT FUNDING SEEMS A BREAK DOWN

DEADLOCK IN NEGOTIATIONS HAS PREVAILED SINCE FRIDAY

SETTLEMENT MUST BE REACHED IN 48 HOURS OR CAILLAUX LEAVES

By WILLIAM J. LOSH
United Press Staff Correspondent

Washington, Sept. 30.—After an intermission of nearly 48 hours the American and French debt commissions expected to get together today for another strenuous session to bring a settlement of the $4,200,000,000 French debt to the United States out of the deadlock which has prevailed in the negotiation since Friday.

The intermission has been occupied with intensive private and informal conferences on terms between members of the two commissions, which, however, have not served greatly to improve the situation and both sides realize the serious stage which the parleys have reached.

Finance Minister Joseph Caillaux head of the French mission has set his departure from Washington for France on Friday morning less than 48 hours away and a settlement must be reached within that time, or it is generally conceded the negotiations go on the rocks.

A high official of the American debt funding commission today swept away doubt concerning the success of the French debt negotiations, declaring both sides are "working toward a settlement."

While no joint session of the French and American commissions is yet definitely scheduled, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Secretary Hoover, Senator Smoot, and Representative Crisp met Finance Minister Joseph Caillaux and three members of the French mission at noon to discuss the "safeguard clause."

Ice For N. P. Trains

Helena, Mont.—Work will be started immediately on the construction of a $50,000 dam and spillway near east Helena to furnish ice for Northern Pacific trains operating between Mandan and Spokane.

THREE BACKFIELDS ON MINN. SQUAD

SPEARS DIRECTS CHIEF ATTENTION TO DEVELOPMENT OF LINE AND ENDS

Minneapolis, Sept. 30.—Only four days remain before the 1925 Minnesota football team will see its first action in Memorial Stadium and indications are that the North Dakota game will draw an attendance out of proportion to its relative importance in the schedule due to the eagerness of fans to see a Spears-coached eleven perform. Interest is added by the fact that real wolf stories have been coming from the North Dakota camp at Grand Forks, which has omitted declarations that the Flickertails will gobble the Gophers.

Time will write the answer, but the current comment is that if Minnesota can't gain ground this fall with one backfield it can try a second, and if the second can't gain it can try a third. Backfield material has never been so plentiful at Minnesota as it is this year, coupled with which statement goes the fact that, if necessary, an "All-ten-second" backfield could be placed in action, composed of Murrell, Graham, O'Shields, Peplaw and Gruenhagen, which makes a backfield with one extra to substitute in case of injury. Joe Gordon is another of the speedy type of back.

For the heavier, plunging type of work Minnesota could put in such men as Joesting at fullback, Captain Ascher, Van Duzee, Arendsee and Almqvist, and Dr. Spears would still have at his command one of the best all-around backfields in practice this season, Mally Nydahl, who seems to be about as sure of a steady backfield berth as anyone is.

ALONG THE SIDE LINES

Bloomington, Ind.—"Navy Bill" Ingram's Hoosier gridders will show the results of their week of secret practice in an open drill today with the freshman squad as the opposition. The occasion is the annual varsity-fresh game.

South Bend, Ind.—Scrimmage was on Knute Rockne's program for his huskies today after the first two days of the week had been devoted to learning new plays and formations. The Irish do not fear the Lombard crew which comes here Saturday but are taking no chances.

Chicago—Don Yesley, star and recruit, is likely to be out of the Chicago-Kentucky fracas here Saturday. He was on the field today but Coach Stagg fears to take any chances with the young wingman's bad ankle.

La Fayette, Ind.—Coach Phelan today took stock of his Purdue squad and attempted to inject a shot of dynamite into seven of his men. He reports satisfaction with Spradling, Harneson, Wilcox and Norzon but says he fears that the rest of the squad may pass away of sheer boredom.

WARDEN ON STAND IN JAIL PRIVILEGE CASE IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Sept. 30.—(UP)—Wesley Westbrook, former warden, took the witness stand in the Druggan-Lake jail scandal hearing today and denied all responsibility for the special privileges that are said to have been accorded the "millionaire beer barons" during their terms for violating the Volstead act.

Westbrook declared he received "absolutely none of the money."

The only privileges the millionaires received were granted over his head on orders from Sheriff Peter Hoffman, said Westbrook.

ST. LOUIS SOCIETY PEOPLE IN TROUBLE

Chicago, Sept. 30.—(UP)—Mrs. Julia Gruner, pretty widow, and Thomas F. Lawrence, wealthy business man both prominent in St. Louis society today were found guilty of immorality and sentenced to 30 days in the house or correction. Lawrence was charged with adultery and Mrs. Gruner with disorderly conduct. They were released on bonds of $1,000 each pending an appeal.

SEWER TRENCH CAVED; HURT 2

Hastings, Minn., Sept. 30.—(UP)—Barney Bennett and Leo King, city employees are recovering today from injuries received late Tuesday when the sides of a sewer trench caved in on them.

Ann Arbor, Mich.—Scrimmage was on the bill today for the Yost men in preparation for the Michigan Aggies game on Saturday. The Wolverine meator plans to try out numerous backfield and line combinations in the Aggie game if his best string men can run up a little score early in the game.

Minneapolis.—The Gophers will have workouts under the spotlight tonight and tomorrow and the ghost ball will be brought up to add an extra hour of practice to the Minnesota schedule, in making ready for the game against North Dakota Saturday.

SPORT TABLOIDS

Economy Streak at Cornell
Ithaca, N. Y.—To reduce expenses and overcome a deficit of $23,000 the Cornell Athletic association will send junior rowing crews only to the Poughkeepsie regatta next year, will reduce the number of assistant coaches and will decrease the number of substitute players taken on trips.

Columbia Varsity Crew
New York.—Three boat loads of candidates for the Columbia varsity crew were on the Hudson river today taking instructions from Dick Glendon, Jr., former Navy coach.

Champion Pole Vaulter Coming
New York.—Charlie Hoff, Norway world's champion pole vaulter and all around athlete star is coming to the United States this winter, according to Harold Osborne, who has returned from a trip to Europe.

BOUT MEANS NOTHING TO N. Y. COMMISSION

New York, Sept. 30.—(UP)—So far as Chairman James A. Farley of the New York Boxing commission is concerned, reports from Indiana relative to the signing of Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills for a heavyweight bout mean nothing. The commission has not received official word of the negotiations, but from reading newspaper reports, Farley believes the bout will not constitute an official acceptance of Wills' challenge as approved by the commission.

White Bears Amateur Champions

St. Paul.—Five innings of baseball played in a drizzling rain Tuesday afternoon were sufficient to crown the White Bear team state amateur champions. Pine Lake, handicapped by lack of pitchers, was forced to bow to a 2-0 score. The rain which fell steadily throughout the game, reached cloudburst proportions in the first half of the sixth after White Bear had scored eight runs. The game was called, the score reverting to the 2-0 standing in the fifth inning. Despite the rain more than 1,500 persons witnessed the contest.

STOCKS RALLIED LATE TODAY

New York, Sept. 30.—Stocks rallied in late trading today. A further tightening of the demand loan rate caused heavy selling earlier. There were renewed fears in the speculative community of an increase in the rediscount charge.

The highest initial level in two years marked the opening of call money at 5 1/2 per cent. Commission house clients liquidated rapidly.

Stocks became violent in the afternoon due to a downward trend in principal industrials. American Can, General Electric, Chrysler, Hudson and General Motors, which headed the upward swing recently were lower.

Sentiment was unsettled throughout all lists.

The market closed lower.

A Word to the Wise

"In March I was called to the bedside of my sister in Brewton, Alabama. She was given up to die and was almost dead. Talked in a whisper. Doctors said nothing but an operation would save her and she was too weak for that. Her color was yellow as a pumpkin and she was filled with gas. That day I heard to Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and went and got a bottle for her. In three weeks she was able to be about and walked a mile to church. I am praising your medicine to everyone." BETRAYAL OF FATIGUE BEAT BOROTRA

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Sept. 30.—Jean Borotra, the young French tennis star, would have added a victory over Bill Tilden to his distinguished court record in the recent Davis Cup challenge round if he had been able to disguise his feelings. Borotra had carried Tilden to four sets under a broiling sun and was carrying the attack to the champion in the fifth set when he began to weaken. Instead of keeping a pose to mislead his opponent, the Frenchman played right into Tilden's hand when he gave the signal of distress by pulling at his side, shaking his head as if in despair and finally taking a chair while they were changing court.

Tilden was just as tired as Borotra but he was too smart to expose his real condition and when he saw how badly the Frenchman was going he speeded up his game and fairly knocked him to the turf.

It is this ability to hide feeling and keep up a brave front that distinguishes the great from the near great. In no sport is this more true than in boxing.

Benny Leonard saved his lightweight championship once when Lew Tendler had him going by keeping a straight face and talking Tendler into the belief that he was not hurt.

Harry Greb always lets an opponent know when he is hurt in a most unusual and disconcerting way. When he is stung he tears in like a wild cat and makes it so interesting for his opponent that he can't follow the opening. "You can always tell when Greb is hurt," Tom Gibbons said once. "You know he's hurt, but you can't do anything about it. He comes back so fast and so wild that you can't get a good shot at him."

All of the real great fighters are "dead pans" in the ring. Dempsey wears the same scowl from the first to the last bell. He was in danger of a knock-out in his last fight with the late Bill Brennan, but Brennan didn't know it and he didn't follow his advantage.

Some fighters go to the opposite extreme to disguise their feeling. They go to the point of folly to show their opponent that they are not hurt after they have taken a good smack.

Joe Tiptitz, the Philadelphia lightweight, suffered his first knockout recently when he went to the extreme of exposing his chin to show Jack Zivic that he was not hurt.

Zivic had stung him several times and the crowd was shouting for a knockout. Tiptitz came out of a clinch, dropped his arms and stuck out his chin. Zivic missed him with a right hook. Tiptitz gave him the laugh and stuck out his jaw. Zivic landed with a left hook the second time and knocked Tiptitz cold.

Other fighters like Leach Cross and the late Pepper Martin used a different kind of ring generalship. They tried to coax their opponent in by weaving around the ring, acting as if they were on the point of a knockout. They followed this strategy so much that opponents always thought they were stalling and they never knew in what real condition they were.

Borotra's sign of distress in the Tilden match was not an indication of a lack of gameness. It marked simply the difference in temperament between a Frenchman and an American. He was at the end of his string and he couldn't help but show it because he didn't see the strategy in hiding his feelings.

Neither did he do it to play for sympathy from the gallery or to alibi an impending defeat. He is too good a sportsman for that.

The French temperament was shown when Mlle. Lengien defaulted to Mrs. Molla Mallory when she was losing a match at Forest Hills several years ago. It would have been more gracious for the French girl to have continued to the end of the set, but she couldn't see the necessity of that because they do not believe in killing themselves in Europe.

FRENCH DEBT
FUNDING SEEMS
A BREAK DOWNDEADLOCK IN NEGOTIATIONS
HAS PREVAILED SINCE
FRIDAYSETTLEMENT MUST BE REACHED
IN 48 HOURS OR
CAILLAUX LEAVESBy WILLIAM J. LOSH
United Press Staff Correspondent

Washington, Sept. 30.—After an intermission of nearly 48 hours the American and French debt commissions expected to get together today for another strenuous session to bring a settlement of the $4,200,000,000 French debt to the United States out of the deadlock which has prevailed in the negotiation since Friday.

The intermission has been occupied with intensive private and informal conferences on terms between members of the two commissions, which, however, had not served greatly to improve the situation and both sides realize the serious stage which the parleys have reached.

Finance Minister Joseph Caillaux head of the French mission has set his departure from Washington for France on Friday morning less than 48 hours away and a settlement must be reached within that time, or it is generally conceded the negotiations go on the rocks.

A high official of the American debt funding commission today swept away doubt concerning the success of the French debt negotiations, declaring both sides are "working toward a settlement."

While no joint session of the French and American commissions is yet definitely scheduled, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Secretary Hoover, Senator Smoot, and Representative Crisp met Finance Minister Joseph Caillaux and three members of the French mission at noon to discuss the "safeguard clause."

THREE BACKFIELDS
ON MINN. SQUAD

SPEARS DIRECTS CHIEF ATTENTION TO DEVELOPMENT OF LINE AND ENDS

Minneapolis, Sept. 30.—Only four days remain before the 1925 Minnesota football team will see its first action in Memorial Stadium and indications are that the North Dakota game will draw an attendance out of proportion to its relative importance in the schedule due to the eagerness of fans to see a Spears-coached eleven perform. Interest is added by the fact that real wolf stories have been coming from the North Dakota camp at Grand Forks, which has omitted declarations that the Flickertails will gobble the Gophers.

Time will write the answer, but the current comment is that if Minnesota can't gain ground this fall with one backfield it can try a second, and if the second can't gain it can try a third. Backfield material has never been so plentiful at Minnesota as it is this year, coupled with which statement goes the fact that, if necessary, an "All-ten-second" backfield could be placed in action, composed of Murrell, Graham, O'Shields, Peplaw and Gruenhagen, which makes a backfield with one extra to substitute in case of injury. Joe Gordon is another of the speedy type of back.

For the heavier, plunging type of work Minnesota could put in such men as Joesting at fullback, Captain Ascher, Van Duzee, Andresen and Almqvist, and Dr. Spears would still have at his command one of the best all-around backfield men in practice this season, Mally Nydahl, who seems to be about as sure of a steady backfield berth as anyone is.

ALONG THE SIDE LINES

Bloomington, Ind.—"Navy Bill" Ingram's Hoosier gridlers will show the results of their week of secret practice in an open drill today with the freshman squad as the opposition. The occasion is the annual varsity-fresh game.

South Bend, Ind.—Scrimmage was on Knute Rockne's program for his huskies today after the first two days of the week had been devoted to learning new plays and formations. The Irish do not fear the Lombard crew which comes here Saturday but are taking no chances.

Chicago—Don Yessley, star and recruit, is likely to be out of the Chicago-Kentucky fracas here Saturday. He was on the field today but Coach Stagg fears to take any chances with the young wingman's bad ankle.

La Fayette, Ind.—Coach Phelan today took stock of his Purdue squad and attempted to inject a shot of dynamite into seven of his men. He reports satisfaction with Sprauling, Harmeson, Wilcox and Norzow but says he fears that the rest of the squad may pass away of sheer boredom.

Iowa City, Ia.—Arkansas plays, used by the freshman squad, ripped holes in the Iowa defense during the first part of the practice scrimmage here, but the yearlings were gradually halted as the varsity caught the idea of the razor back formation.

Evanston, Ill.—A forward pass attack was being developed by Northwestern today, with Walter Zidel and Waldo Fisher on the receiving end. Harold White, half back, was doing the hurling in the absence of Moon Baker, who may be kept out of the South Dakota game because of a bad ankle.

Champaign, Ill.—Illinois squad is divided into hostile camps, with the second squad wearing red Nebraska jerseys this week. Red Grange chopped his way through the red formation yesterday for one long run and several middle distance flights.

Madison, Wis.—Basketball Coach Walter Meanwell and Chuck Carney, former basketball and football star at Illinois, now a Badger end coach are at work with the forward passing department here, aiding Coach George Little in establishing fundamentals in passing and receiving.

Columbus, O.—Coach Jack Wilce is building his offense for the Ohio Wesleyan game around Wendler, recruit half back. He plans to have Marek, his sophomore flash for the later games.

Ann Arbor, Mich.—Scrimmage was on the bill today for the Yost men in preparation for the Michigan Aggies game on Saturday. The Wolverine meator plans to try out numerous backfield and line combinations in the Aggie game if his best string men can run up a little score early in the game.

Minneapolis.—The Gophers will have workouts under the spotlight tonight and tomorrow and the ghost ball will be brought up to add an extra hour of practice to the Minnesota schedule, in making ready for the game against North Dakota Saturday.

SPORT TABLOIDS

Economy Streak at Cornell
Ithaca, N. Y.—To reduce expenses and overcome a deficit of $23,000 the Cornell Athletic association will send minor rowing crews only to the Poughkeepsie regatta next year, will reduce the number of assistant coaches and will decrease the number of substitute players taken on trips.

Columbia Varsity Crew
New York.—Three boat loads of candidates for the Columbia varsity crew were on the Hudson river today taking instructions from Dick Glendon, Jr., former Navy coach.

Champion Pole Vaulter Coming
New York.—Charlie Hoff, Norway, world's champion pole vaulter and all-around athletic star is coming to the United States this winter, according to Harold Osborne, who has returned from a trip to Europe.

BOUNT MEANS NOTHING TO N. Y. COMMISSION

New York, Sept. 30.—(UP)—So far as Chairman James A. Farley of the New York Boxing commission is concerned, reports from Indiana relative to the signing of Jack Dempsey and Harry Willis for a heavyweight bout mean nothing. The commission has not received official word of the negotiations, but from reading newspaper reports, Farley believes the bout will not constitute an official acceptance of Willis' challenge as approved by the commission.

White Bears Amateur Champions

St. Paul.—Five innings of baseball played in a drizzling rain Tuesday afternoon were sufficient to crown the White Bear team state amateur champions. Pine Lake, handicapped by lack of pitchers, was forced to bow to a 2-0 score. The rain which fell steadily throughout the game, reached cloudburst proportions in the first half of the sixth after White Bear had scored eight runs. The game was called, the score reverting to the 2-0 standing in the fifth inning. Despite the rain more than 1,500 persons witnessed the contest.

STOCKS RALLIED LATE TODAY
New York, Sept. 30.—Stocks rallied in late trading today. A further tightening of the demand loan rate caused heavy selling earlier. There were renewed fears in the speculative community of an increase in the rediscount charge.

The highest initial level in two years marked the opening of call money at 5 1/2 per cent. Commission house clients liquidated rapidly. Stocks became violent in the afternoon due to a downward trend in principal industries. American Can, General Electric, Chrysler, Hudson and General Motors, which headed the upward swing recently were lower.

Sentiment was unsettled throughout all lists.

The market closed lower.

A Word to the Wise

"In March I was called to the bedside of my sister in Brewton, Alabama. She was given up to die and was almost dead. Talked in a whisper. Doctors said nothing but an operation would save her and she was too weak for that. Her color was yellow as a pumpkin and she was filled with gas. That day I heard to Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and went and got a bottle for her. In three weeks she was able to be about and walked a mile to church. I am praising my medicine to everyone." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Johnson's Pharmacy and druggists everywhere.
